WINTER HITS MIDDLE WEST

Snow And Low Temperature But Little Damage Reported—Cross-Continent Motorists Are Frost Bitten.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Chicago, Dec. 14.—From New Mexico, where two hundred motorists were marooned behind snowdrifts, to the Great Lakes, where storm warnings brought severe temperatures, but no reported damage, the west and middle west today bundled itself in against the first nip of real winter. Slowly falling temperature was today's prediction.

Rescue parties working from San Marcial, New Mexico, brought nearly 100 motorists from the snowbound roads, while the remaining two-thirds of the group held prisoners by winter for two days resumed their battle through the drifts toward Hot Springs, where they were assured of clear roads in their journey westward. Frost bitten feet, hands and ears were the only injuries reported. One car found abandoned near Nagai Canyon led searchers to fear that its occupants may have become lost and possibly frozen to death.

Fargo, N. D., saw the temperature dropping to 12 above zero today, while Winnipeg had it 10 above after a light snow and drop to 4 below late yesterday.

San Francisco boasted sixty degrees and coming eastward from the Rockies the plains states reported milder temperatures. Minneapolis had 20 and Chicago 25 early today.

In one section the weather proved a blessing, when the drop retarded highwater in the streams of Southern Indiana, particularly the lower Wabash and White rivers. The mark of 22 there was the lowest of the winter thus far.

BODY OF SPERRY, DEAD AVIATOR, NOT YET FOUND

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Dover, England, Dec. 14.—Hope that Lawrence B. Sperry, young American aviator, escaped death when his airplane fell into the English Channel, was abandoned today.

Searchers have not yet found the body, but they picked up Sperry's air jacket a mile distant from the wreckage of the machine.

When Sperry flew out over the channel near Rye his machine was about 500 feet in the air. Eye witnesses said the craft suddenly crumpled and then shot downward with great speed. The motor evidently fell from the machine as it was not found in the wreckage.

In addition to the jacket, searchers picked up the aviator's chart and a parcel bearing the words: "This is the property of L. B. Sperry."

Sperry departed from Croydon yesterday morning to fly to Amsterdam. The accident took place about 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

THREE MURDERERS ARE EXECUTED AT SING SING

Listen To Applause As They Wait For Current, Being Used on Stage.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Ossining, N. Y., Dec. 14.—Three murderers died in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison early today.

They were Abraham Becker, the Bronx, convicted wife murderer; George Hacker, found guilty of murdering Miss Goldie Hard, Binghamton, and Harry Santanillo, also of Binghamton, who killed a fellow countryman in a feud.

Executions were scheduled for 11 o'clock last night. Death had to be delayed more than an hour and a quarter, however, because the electrical current of the prison was needed to light the stage where convicts were presenting a musical comedy.

As the three condemned men knelt in prayer in their cells during the hour before execution the music, laughter and applause drifted into the death house.

MEXICAN FEDERALS CAPTURE MUNITION SHIP

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Los Angeles, Dec. 14.—Heavily loaded with a cargo of rifles and war munitions said to have been taken aboard at San Francisco, the Mexican State Line steamer Oaxaca, used by the British as a "mystery" ship during the war, was seized at Manzanillo by federal troops, according to passengers arriving this afternoon at Los Angeles Harbor on the President Hayes.

The western coast of Mexico is seething with excitement over the revolution and clashes have occurred between the rebels and federals guarding Manzanillo, and bands of rebels marauding on the outskirts of the city, according to word received here.

The Oaxaca was captured by federalists. It was stated, after oil had been poured into the water tanks and water into the oil containers, the ship is said to have carried munitions for the revolutionists.

As there are one or two things needed especially to make comfortable and happy the little ten-year old girl who is a bed patient at the hospital, a little additional money will be most acceptable.

GIRL SCOUT EXHIBIT AT NEW HEADQUARTERS

John street has looked so queer these holiday times with the show windows of what used to be the E. Winter's Sons' store, empty, that it seems especially good to see the attractive display that the Girl Scouts now have in that part of the store which is to be their headquarters for the present. There is a prettily decorated Christmas tree and near it on the ground are to be seen all of the implements that go to make up a genuine Girl Scout outfit, and any one of which or all of which would more than delight the heart of any Girl Scout as a Christmas gift. In another part of the window is a diminutive Girl Scout tent, with evergreen trees as a background and at the sides, mossy walks in front of the tent, and occupying a place in distinction, the American flag on a flag pole, such as one always sees in front of any Girl Scout camp.

MEXICAN BATTLE IS IN PROGRESS

Federals Engaged With Sanchez's Forces Since Wednesday Night—Estrada Beats Rebels.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Mexico City, Dec. 14.—A battle has been in progress between federal troops and rebels in the mountains between Esperanza and Orzaba, state of Vera Cruz, since 11:30 o'clock Wednesday night, according to information received by the war office today.

Two columns of federals engaged General Guadalupe Sanchez's revolutionary forces. One of the columns is commanded by General Fausto Topolansky and the other by General Jesus Aguirre.

A mounted military courier telegraphed news of the engagement to the war department from Andres, State of Puebla. The message made no mention of casualties nor did it say which side was winning. The federals, however, have the superior equipment.

War office officials explained that interruption of wire communication was making it difficult to obtain detailed reports of the operations in Vera Cruz.

Rebel troops under General Estrada have been defeated by Federals at Orizaba, State of Jalisco.

Federal troops stationed in the Estacion-Esperanza sector, along the summit of a range of mountains, have withdrawn for strategic reasons. War department officials said this could not be regarded as a rebel victory.

The Estacion-Esperanza sector is on the border of the States of Vera Cruz and Puebla.

Federal forces have withdrawn from the town of Oriental on the border of the States of Vera Cruz and Tlaxcala. Surrender of this town was described by military officers as a movement of minor importance.

Official circles are confident that this city is in no danger of attack.

Military interest is divided between the battle in Vera Cruz and the prospective clash between General Estrada's rebels and General Joaquin Amaro's Federals near Guadalupe in the State of Jalisco. Guadalupe is the second largest city in the republic.

Quiet prevails at Ciudad Victoria, capital of Tamaulipas, and Tampico. Ramon Ross, one of the Mexican members of the recognition conference has left for Washington to become Mexican charge d'affaires, relieving the incumbent who is an adherent of the De La Huerta (rebel) cause.

John M. Cassin, Assistant U. S. District Attorney, stated that while but five complaints had been served that morning, five more were to be served, making a total of ten.

The complaints charge flagrant violation of the 18th Constitutional Amendment and summon the defendants to appear in the U. S. District Court within 20 days to answer to the complaint under penalty of $250 fine.

The summonses are based on raids made previously in the places served, according to the complaints.

SAY CROSSING GATES WERE DOWN

Witnesses For Railroad Say Trolley Car Ran Through Them and, One Says, Into Side of Locomotive—Court to be Held Christmas Week.

In supreme court the actions brought by Margaret O'Brien and Lena Tonsky against the Director General of Railroads and the Kingston Consolidated Railroad were continued this morning when the defendant, Director General of Railroads, began his side of the case. The testimony on the part of the defendant trolley company was completed Thursday afternoon.

Dr. E. H. Loughran, who made an examination with Dr. John G. O'Leary and Dr. F. L. Eastman, was sworn as the railroad's first witness. He testified that from his examination, Miss O'Brien was suffering as a result of the shock of the accident. Her blood pressure was high and her blood condition was poor, but that otherwise she was normal. She was apparently in a very nervous condition and he stated that from his experience she would eventually recover but he could not be positive of it. A settlement of the case he also predicted would be one thing which would go a long way to cure her.

Her condition he compared with that of a railroad engineer who has an accident. The shock is terrific and sometimes they do not recover from the shock but remain in a very nervous condition. He however said that it was possible that she would fully recover.

Several other witnesses were sworn by the defendant, several of them being railroad employees who were at the scene of the accident. Andrew Osterhout, who now resides in Rhinebeck and who was employed at the Palen plant on Broadway as night fireman at the time of the accident, testified that he had left the Palen plant and had gone to Free's saloon to wait for the car. He observed the car coming opposite O'Reilly's news store and then left the Free place and walked toward the crossing. He had reached a point near the entrance to the freight house when he observed the gates part way down. The car was just below the gates. The car hit the gates. He did not hear bell or whistle on the train and did not see the train. The car had just passed him when he realized that an accident was unavoidable, he stopped. He was then in front of the freight house coming down he had passed the McGill place of business.

William Bonestell, who was to the north of the crossing, testified that the car was between the Morris meat house and the crossing when the gates came down. He saw two men on the front of the car and both were looking up the tracks toward the station away from the direction that the train came from. He said that it was not the front of the engine which struck the trolley car, but that the front had passed the car when some part of the side of the engine hit the trolley car which ran through the gates.

Mr. Nestell who was in the freight house at the time heard the train sound a whistle and observed the gates coming down. He then went from the top floor of the freight house to the next floor to a wash room and while in the wash room heard the crash. He could give no estimate of the time it took for him to go downstairs. He said that his view of the track was obstructed from the wash room by cars which were on the freight house switch. John Sullivan, flagman who was near the subway north of the crossing testified that he had been waiting for the train and heard it blow at the turn near the cemetery. The gates started to come down shortly after and were down when the trolley hit them. Mr. Sullivan went to the scene of the accident. He said that he had been a flagman and while at Saenger's had failed to put down the gates there and a train upon which some railroad officials were riding had hit the Saenger's stage. Several other witnesses were sworn. Court will convene Monday and adjourn next Friday until Wednesday, December 26. Court will be held for the remainder of that week and then the term will come to a close. In stating these facts to the attorneys Judge Staley said that he was announcing his plans so that attorneys who now have cases on the day calendar may keep in touch with the court and be ready when their case is called.

The Spellman case will take up a greater part of next week so that it will be possible to take up but a few more cases at this term. There are several now on the day calendar and it will not be necessary to add any further cases.

George Houston, a negro indicted for grand larceny in the second degree in stealing $314 belonging to Jacob Thompson, on November 14 at the town of Shandaken. He pleaded guilty and his statement was taken. Sentence will be pronounced later.

Joseph Brown, a negro, indicted for burglary in the third degree, in entering the residence of Police Officer Entrott on Brewster street in this city, and stealing an overcoat. He pleaded guilty and his statement was taken. Sentence will be pronounced later.

John Van Stoenburgh, white, was indicted for grand larceny in the first degree in stealing a Durant coupe belonging to Stanley Winne in this city. He pleaded not guilty through his attorney, Chris J. Flanagan. Bail was fixed at $3,000 and the case was sent to county court for trial.

The grand jury dismissed the charges against Warren Taylor, Fred Bydner, Edwin Diltmar and Thornton Crawford.

The sealed indictments were transferred to county court where the defendants will be arraigned when they are taken into custody.

Court took a recess until Monday afternoon at two o'clock.

Judge Staley cautioned the jury which is trying the negligence case on trial not to talk about the case or allow other persons to talk to them about it, and in event anybody should talk to them about it, to report the matter to him.

AMERICA LEADS IN USE OF TELEPHONE.

The supremacy of the United States in the extent to which the telephone enters the business and social life of the people is well known. Striking evidence of the degree of American leadership in the telephone field is, however, afforded by a recent compilation of telephone statistics for all countries of the world. According to this survey, there were on January 1, 1922, a total of 21,948,360 telephones in the world. Of these, 13,875,219 were in the United States. That is, the American people, who number but 6 per cent of the total population of the globe, had for their use 63 per cent of all the telephones in the world. Europe, with a population of more than four times that of the United States, had only 25 per cent of the world's telephones, and all other countries combined possessed but 12 per cent of the total telephones in existence. Only 29 per cent of the world's total telephones are under government ownership; the remaining 71 per cent are owned and operated by private enterprises. Moreover, as the compilation shows, nothing has been achieved under public ownership even approaching the extent of telephone service attained by the private undertakings in the United States. There were on January 1, 1922, 12.7 telephones for every 100 people in this country, or one telephone for every eight Americans. It is significant, also, that outside of the United States the telephone has reached its highest development in relation to population in Canada and in Denmark, where a large majority of the telephones are owned and operated by private companies. On January 1, 1922, there were 10.2 telephones for every 100 people in Canada and 8.2 telephones per 100 population in Denmark. Although considerably behind the United States in telephone development these two countries are well ahead of the great powers of Europe where government ownership obtains. Germany, for example, has only 3.3 telephones for every 100 inhabitants. Great Britain and Ireland have only 2.1, and France has only 1.3. Europe as a whole, had on January 1, 1922, only 1.2 telephones per 100 people—a stage of telephone development attained by the United States in 1900. In this respect Europe is 22 years behind America.

Another striking contrast between telephone conditions in this country and abroad is brought out by a consideration of the relative extent of telephone service in large and small communities in the various countries. Telephone service has been developed in practically all foreign countries, mainly in the large communities; and the less populous places, particularly the rural areas, have a disproportionately small number of telephones. For instance, one-third of all the telephones in Great Britain and Ireland are concentrated in London; one-third of all the telephones in France are in Paris. Farmers' telephone lines, as we know them here, are almost nonexistent in Europe.

Nevertheless, the telephone service abroad, even in the cities, is still relatively restricted in extent as compared with the urban telephone systems in this country. There are few cities outside the United States and Canada, with as many as 19 telephones per 100 population. Yet the 22 United States cities of over 250,000 population on January 1, 1922, showed the high average of 17.2 telephones per 100 inhabitants. In absolute numbers, the single city of New York had, on that date, almost as many telephones as the whole Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and now has more.

THE CLOVE.

The Clove, Dec. 12.—Mr. and Mrs. William Sheeley and Mr. and Mrs. John K. Depuy motored to Lake Katrine Sunday and spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Sheeley.

Mrs. Victor Esonger of Middletown has been spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. Terwilliger.

A number from this place spent a very pleasant Saturday evening at the K. of P. Hall, Allgerville. John C. Yeaple has bought a building lot of Delavan Smith and will start building on same at once. Simon Terwilliger has been entertaining his cousin for a few days. Ashur Stokes, who has been employed at Kingston, is spending a vacation with his parents here.

The school children are rehearsing for a Christmas entertainment with their teacher as instructor. It will be given in The Clove Chapel Friday evening, December 21. If nothing prevents.

A few of the ladies cleaned the chapel Wednesday, to give it a better appearance for services Sunday evening, December 16.

Two large truck loads of lumber from the Oakeskills, on route for Oscar Harp's, were obliged to unload at the Sand Bank farm on account of the extremely bad roads from there to The Traps. It is rumored that Mr. Harp will erect several bungalows to accommodate Jewish people through the summer.

Lorin Coddington has sold his newly built bungalow and a portion of his farm to city parties.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Decker and family of Springtown spent Sunday with her mother, Mrs. Alveta Yeaple.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sheeley spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Joan C. Yeaple.

Albert Wright, and family and Miss Maude Coddington spent Sunday with relatives in Walden.

GUIDES MUST BE LICENSED

New Law Goes Into Effect January 1 — Conservation Commission Sending Out Blanks.

By Telegraph to The Freeman, Albany, Dec. 14.—Application blanks for guides under the new law which becomes effective January 1, have been prepared by the conservation commission and are being distributed to the commission's game protectors and inspectors in the forest preserve counties. Applications for guides' licenses must be filed at the office of the conservation commission with the fee of $2 which the law requires.

The law provides that no person shall engage in the business of guiding in the forest preserve counties without first having procured from the conservation commission a license and authorizes the commission to prescribe rules and regulations under which such license shall be issued. Licenses are to be issued for the calendar year and must be renewed each year.

The law further provides that "any such licensed guide who violates any provision of this chapter, or violates any lawful rule or regulation established by the conservation commission, or who makes any false statement in the application for a license shall in addition to the liabilities for the penalties for such violation in this chapter, immediately forfeit and surrender his license, and no license to act as a guide shall be issued to such person for a period of two years following such forfeiture. All persons licensed as guides, shall be citizens of the United States, at least 21 years of age and shall have the same power as special game protectors except the right to search without a warrant.

"A guide is a person who engages for hire in the business of guiding parties in traversing the territory in which he is licensed to guide and shall be skilled in the use, management and handling of such boats or canoes, on lake, pond, river or other waters as are used in the territory in which he is authorized to guide and who shall be a safe and competent person under all circumstances to be a guide for camping, hunting or inland fishing parties.

"The conservation commission shall maintain and annually publish a list of all guides licensed as herein provided.

"No licensed guide shall, while engaged in the performance of his duties, shoot or kill any wild animal, fowl or birds, or carry any fire arms, except a revolver or pistol. A violation of this section shall be a misdemeanor punishable upon conviction by a fine of one hundred dollars, or by imprisonment for sixty days, or by both such fine and imprisonment."

More Danger of Too Much Pruning Than Too Little.

Pruning will soon occupy the attention of many fruit growers throughout the state and questions will arise concerning the best procedure under certain conditions. Horticulturists at the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station at Geneva assert that many orchardists prune too much, without regard to the real need of the tree.

It is pointed out that trees which are well selected when the orchard is set out it is necessary to remove only occasional branches which start out in the wrong place and to remove dead, injured and crossed limbs.

If the trees are bearing small fruits, if the tops contain many dead branches, or if the seasonal growth is short and scant, judicious pruning is recommended as a means of rejuvenation. "This usually consists in cutting back many branches and in entirely removing others," say the station authorities, who lay down the following general rules applicable under such conditions: "Prune weak-growing varieties heavily; strong-growing kinds lightly. Varieties which branch freely need little pruning; those with many unbranched limbs, much pruning. Prune trees in rich, deep soils lightly; in poor, shallow soils heavily."

The cutting back of all the branches of a tree is practiced regularly only with peaches and some plums, it is said. "This is attributed to the fact that, with these fruits, the wood of the past season, and therefore the crop, is borne progressively further away from the trunk, so that it is necessary to head-in these fruits by cutting back the branches in order to keep the bearing wood near the trunk. On the other hand, apples, pears, cherries and most plums are borne on spurs from wood two or more years old and with these heading-in is not so desirable. Experimental evidence obtained in tests on the station grounds indicates that winter pruning has no special advantage over summer pruning, except that the pressure of other work is less during the winter months."

The Alligator Gar. The great gar (Litholepis or Lepisosteus tristnechus) of the rivers of southern United States, Cuba, Mexico, and Central America is known as the alligator gar. It is greenish in color and sometimes reaches a length of 20 feet. Its flesh is worthless as food; its scaly armor often turns a spear or even shot. While it is able to breathe air to a certain extent, yet it soon dies.

SUGGEST DAILY RATIONS
FOR USE IN DECEMBER.

During the month of November prices eased off considerably on all kinds of feeds, particularly the corn feeds, so that now hominy feed is the cheapest on the list, with the exception of four wheat middlings, says L. S. Savage of the State College at Ithaca, in making his suggestion of a dairy ration for December.

"The high protein feeds have eased off a little in price, but not materially," he says.

On the basis of the new prices, he recommends the mixture given below, replacing oats with wheat bran because wheat bran is now relatively cheaper than oats on the basis of total digestible nutrients. However, any farmer having oats would do well to continue to use them, he says.

The ration 300 pounds wheat bran 200 pounds corn meal or Poultry 200 pounds gluten feed, 700 pounds oil meal.

More Than Likely.

Japs Excel in Carving.

Japanese art is supreme in wood and ivory carving. Experts in such matters declare that there is nothing anywhere else that comes near what Japanese workmen can achieve. A specimen of ivory carving was shown to one investigator which represented a bag of rice with two or three dozen rats in and upon it. Every rat was an individual in character, position, and action, as if a special portrait had been taken of it, and the web of the bag, the glistening grains of rice and the sleek fur of the rodents could not have been better expressed in painting.

At an art store in Yokohama there was exhibited a piece of wood carving representing two life-sized wrestlers contending in the ring. Every muscle and every vein were delineated, every tendon and every ligament were anatomically perfect. It drew a constant crowd, and a policeman informed the proprietor of the shop that if he intended to continue the wrestling on his premises he must engage a posse of police to restrain the crowd. He was invited into the shop, and melted into smiles when he saw that the wrestlers were carvings in wood.

THE EXTRA COAT—FASHION FEATURE.

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

The success of the colored coat is one of the conspicuous details of a season which has been prolific in coat ideas. While the very nature of the garment would lead one to infer that it was supplementary—an extra coat thrown into one's wardrobe for good measure—it appears that many women are content to wear it to mill and to meeting rather than not wear it at all.

All shades of red have "basked in the sunshine of hot smiles"—among these jacquer and rust are the most approved. Another color which must not be overlooked, is almond green, a shade which is particularly pleasing with light furs, and bright coats have formed an alliance with light furs which have met with popular approval.

It is the belief of some style authorities that the bright coat is out of place for town wear, not that one bright coat is amiss in an assemblage of dark ones, but that a dozen or more produces an effect contrary to accepted standards of good taste. Everyone agrees though, that the injection of novelty into the winter coat field has given an added interest to a subject that was often devoid of any thought other than that of keeping the wearer warm.

the odd coat. In fact we have adjusted ourselves to the idea that one coat is not expected to do service for one winter, let alone two, although its life is obviously lengthened by the frequent substitution of another coat.

The fur trimmed coat has been generally approved this winter. In fact to an extent which has interfered somewhat with the sale of fur coats. But there are days, notably stormy ones, when a coat minus fur is in better taste. The model sketched is by Douillet and has tan leather pipings as a relieving touch to a Havana brown cloth.

Although the tendency in dress fabrics is toward smooth and often shiny surfaced materials in coats, the call is for dull surfaced cloths. The three-quarter coat has shared its popularity with the full length, and many a full length coat has its fur border a foot from the hem, which shortens the coat in effect, at least. The placement of fur this season has nothing whatsoever to do with any notion of supplying warmth where warmth is most needed. Vertical bands applied at the side and in some instances a wide band down the center of the back are some of the extraordinary trimming methods. (Copyright, 1923, Fairchild.)

PINE HILL.

Pine Hill, Dec. 13.—Postmaster Henry A. Cole is confined to his home with a severe attack of rheumatism.

Jan's Smith is spending a couple of weeks in Brooklyn visiting friends.

Miss Dorothy Cole of this village, who graduated at the Oneonta Normal School last month, is now home with her parents.

Mrs. L. E. Smith, who recently underwent an operation at the Kingston City Hospital and has been home for the past two weeks, is rapidly recovering.

Nate S. Pect, who suffered a slight shock a few days ago, is slowly recovering.

Charles Denton, who has had charge of Steve O'Connor's electric light plant at this place for the past two years, has returned to his home in Brooklyn.

The improvements made to J. M. Smith's property on Academy street adds much to the appearance of that section of the village.

Where Bats Thrive.

Bats are absent from the coldest parts of the world and are most numerous in the eastern tropics. They are characteristically tropical. In rather cold climates, such as that of Canada, some species have acquired a habit of migration, going south to some extent in the autumn, as the northern winters are too long to be survived in a state of uninterrupted hibernation.

A CALL TO LET THE RURAL SCHOOLS ALONE

They Have Some Advantages Over Those in City.

Editor of The Freeman,
Dear Sir:

I have been following the remarks made on the new Rural School Bill, as published in your Freeman with great interest. The farmers, some of them at least, seem to be asleep to the danger and nuisance, which, if this bill is put through will bring them. The district in which I live is a small one, yet it provides a school house built on modern plans. Satisfactory toilet, library, heater, fine ventilation, good light and has always yet been able to procure a teacher that is fully able and educated in every way to fulfill the duties required.

Our Rural districts are not devoid of good teachers as the Education Department and a few others seem to think. How could it be possible when girls or boys who care to take up that profession now-a-days must be educated under the laws provided by the department. Our children advance as fast, if not faster than the city children do and know exactly as much. They are bred in as pure an atmosphere, under the guidance as a rule of good moral parents and their parents in turn see to it that their district school is taught by a good, moral, educated teacher. If the teacher fails in her duty she soon realizes how full of contempt the district she is teaching in is for her. In cities teachers go on from year to year with far worse methods of teaching than we have, yet the same teacher is allowed to stick. No so in the country. If a teacher is no good, if she fails to show results she doesn't have another chance the next year. What is more, what district wants to lose its school house just because some people who have no more idea than a cat or not as much think the farmers have no right to govern their own district. Besides those people hardly know what a time a country child would have in going back and forth to the "consolidated school house."

What mother wants to see her child start away on a bus in this day of remarkable accidents caused by carelessness of bus drivers and others who are monopolizing. Imagine the country roads in winter after a heavy snow storm or ice storm. Think of little tots of eight going on a bus. Think of them standing on the roads waiting for this conveyance in nasty weather. Remark the long distance some would have to walk to the starting place of the bus. And expenses, yes expenses. A hot lunch at this new school. Only a few cents, but even cents may make dollars in a week. We can provide for our children at home the most of them if you please at dinner time, since mostly all may go home. What few remain may bring their food to be made hot at school from home. And then there will be other expenses. Just the same as "city schools." A bit for this, a bit for that and that is our education system. In this case a regular graft. No, farmers, let us stick to our country schools. If there are any improvements to be made let us put it on our own district. Our districts need attractiveness as much as just one altogether does. Mothers and fathers show this Education Board how wrong they are in even supposing you are not interested in the school. Oh, what a mistake. When mothers are seen from time to time inquiring about their children in the country school, in the city school very little. Mothers in the country visit the school. They aid in little entertainments, in picnics, in concerts, in spreads, in everything to keep the child interested. As for the teacher, there is not one of the family she does not know from the baby up. The country teacher visits the mothers and fathers of the children. She takes tea with them. Not so your city schools, that only happens to a few. The mothers and fathers in the country are far nearer the insight of the little district school than any city father or mother ever thought of being.

In fact let the farmers alone. Let the small country school alone. If you wish to spoil our boys and girls, fail to educate them. Why we are for consolidation but if we will have our children unspoiled and educated, allow us please to provide for them as we think best. We country fathers and mothers are as much interested in our children's welfare as you are and more so since it is we who have reared them. If the farmers can't prevent you, may God Himself say, "Keep to your city system in cities but leave my God fearing country schools alone."

Truly yours,
A SUBSCRIBER AND LAND OWNER in a true school loving country district.

BAGPIPE MONKEY IS GIVEN TO ZOO

Red Howler Ape Fills Up With Air, Then Lets Out Fearful Yell.

New York.—Because a Bronx resident with a small apartment and several children did not care to keep a huge monkey with an uncertain temper, a long red beard, teeth like a walrus and a roar like thunder, the animal has been turned over to the Bronx zoo and will soon be exhibited there.

It is a red howler, one of the rarest of the monkey family. There have been two gorillas in this country before, but no red howlers. In its throat it has a big air reservoir like that of a Scotch bagpipe. It pumps itself up and then lets out a howl that would startle the best house.

The red howling monkey was a present to the zoo and one of the most unusual the institution has received.

Staggering under a large box, the owner breathlessly entered the office of Raymond L. Ditmars, curator of the make house.

"May I present a monkey to the zoo?" he asked.

"Certainly," said the curator. "I'm thankful," said the visitor, depositing the box and wiping his brow. "I was afraid you wouldn't take it."

Gift From a Sailor.

"This was a gift from a relative who is a sailor. We always thought we wanted a monkey for a pet. He said he would get us a fine one, and he brought the one in the box on a trip from South America."

"It did not look to us like the kind of a monkey to play with children, because it was so big and had savage teeth and gave such roars. We had to thank him for the gift, but he has been staying with us while the ship was in port, and we had to have the monkey there during that time. He left recently and as soon as I thought it safe I headed for the zoo with it."

Curator Ditmars thanked the sailor's benefactor and went on with some writing. Some time after the visitor was gone he took off the lid of the box. He related what followed, saying:

"The monkey kept on rising and rising, showing a big head, then a long beard and then a large but very emaciated body. It looked to me like a bad one, and I edged out of the office. I thought I would try to start right with it by giving it some bananas. Because obviously it had not been fed the proper food for some time."

Is Friendly With Monkey.

"When I came back and tossed it some bananas it let out a fearful howl. I recognized it at once as a red howler and one of the finest gifts the zoo has received in a long time. We have never had one before. I worked with it cautiously and found it fairly docile. If shored or annoyed it will show its teeth in ugly fashion and growl, but ordinarily is gentle and has had some training. It was practically starved, and I saw that it was necessary to give it careful attention and feed it up if it was to live, so I took it home with me."

"It behaved very well and has been putting on flesh. It has made friends with a small mustached monkey at my place at Scarsdale and the two are great companions, but the little fellow has to be watched to prevent him from feeding green apples to the howler."

To Investigate Waters of Springs in Arkansas

Washington.—A conference of leading members of the medical profession called together by the National Research Council at the request of Secretary of the Interior Work has unanimously adopted resolutions urging a thorough investigation of the physiological action and therapeutic value of the waters of the Hot Springs National park in Arkansas. It was announced at the Department of the Interior recently.

The proposed investigation, according to the resolutions, should be made for the protection of the public in the use of the mineral water of Hot Springs and for the information of the medical profession. Besides announcing that the clinical and laboratory facilities already available or procurable by the government would be sufficient to conduct such an inquiry the physicians present at the conference appointed a special committee to outline the details of the investigation.

Escapes From Prison by Slide on Electric Wires

Jefferson City, Mo.—Sliding forty feet over slender electric wires of an improvised roller made of a broom handle, then leaping thirty feet from the wall to the ground, Arthur Knich, twenty-two of New York escaped from the Missouri penitentiary here. Guards saw the convict on the roof of the shirt factory, but supposed that he was an electrician making repairs. The guards did not shoot as he slipped on the wall because they were afraid of hitting a guard on the tower.

Knich came to the prison from Kansas City in April, 1922, to serve ten years for robbery.

FIND ODD TRAFFIC LAWS IN SHANGHAI

American Traveler Tells of Motoring in China.

A friend of mine returned the other day from Shanghai, China, and the tale of the motoring laws in Shanghai may be interesting to American motorists, says Edwin Greer, president of College of Automotive Engineering of Chicago.

In the first place traffic runs along the left side of the street, which is the opposite to the American custom.

There are so many Chinamen on the streets that one would naturally suppose the law would require the motorist to drive slowly. On the contrary, they may drive as fast as they wish—it is up to the coolie to get out of the way. However, if the motorist happens to bump a high-class Chinaman or foreigner, who be unto him, for the law takes its full course, and for such an offense the motorist will, nine chances out of ten, find himself in jail, and Shanghai jails aren't very nice when one shares them with numerous coolies.

Few accessories are used on cars in the Orient, but then the cars are, for the most part, not worth dolling up. As long as they run on all four wheels nothing is done to them. When repainting is imperative only that work is done which is absolutely necessary.

The roads are narrow and constructed of cobblestones, except in a small downtown district. Cars and fires do not last very long there. The traffic officers are Sikh policemen, who stand at the main corners in a sort of dejected manner and wave their hands spasmodically, first in one direction and then in the other. Rickshaws, machines and street cars wait impatiently sometimes while a Sikh policeman settles a dispute among some coolies, then, with a start, wakes up and sends the hold-up traffic on once again.

Most machines don't seem capable of breaking any speed laws. However, there are some very honest-to-goodness machines on the streets, driven by chauffeurs, and they for the most part are observant of the speed laws, or, at least, they watch the movements of other cars so as to avoid a collision. Gasoline sells for a dollar a gallon, China money, or about 50 cents in gold. However, you can hire an automobile all day for $5, but why use an automobile when you can have a ricksha for 50 cents a day and be carried somewhere between ten and twelve miles an hour.

Altogether, motoring in the Orient isn't a very comfortable sport, though most of the well-paid foreigners own automobiles or "motors," as they say over there. If you drive outside of the cities and have a breakdown, then your troubles begin, for there are not many garages in that country. In fact, the only place cars are used is in a short radius of the larger towns.

German Skulls in Danger. A recent telegraph dispatch from Berlin says that the hickory club used by "New York's Finest" has been adopted by the Berlin police and with great results!

If this is true, Heaven help the German cranium, for New York's finest use a locust, not a hickory club, and for the following reasons:

It rebounds from the human skull without cracking it.

It sounds after a musical note when it hits the pavement, and is thus used for important signals.

A hickory club would too often kill, and also makes a poor signal.

The locust comes to the city with the tradition of making the best of all fence posts, thus standing for defense of property rights.—New York Times.

Injun Joe Doad.

Injun Joe, called to fame by Mark Twain in "Tom Sawyer," died recently at the age of one hundred and two. For more than seventy-five years he had answered the call of the wild up and down the Mississippi river and never wandered far from its banks. Injun Joe, whose real name was Joe Douglas, emphatically denied being the original of the fictional Indian, but Hannibal, Mo., residents insist it is so. There was much of romance in his life. He was found in an abandoned Indian village of Callaway county and reared by a white man.

Pine Trees Most Profitable.

According to Science Service as a rule pines promise earlier and larger financial returns than hardwoods. They grow in close stands at a relatively rapid rate to timber size and some of them produce turpentine of commercial quality. With the exception of cottonwood, black locust and perhaps a few others the hardwoods require a longer period to produce merchantable timber.

Much Better. Charlie—Married yet, old man? Edward—No; but I'm engaged, and that's as good as married. "It's better, if you only knew it."

Too Soon to Tell. Nursemaid—Well, 'ow d' yer like yer new mistress? Maid—Can't tell yet. She's on 'er best behavior for the first few days.—London Punch.

Evolution. From keeping company to getting engaged to marrying to divorce and to paying alimony and falling in love again are easy steps on life's accommodating escalator.

All There. A well-known singer was in a motor car accident. A paper, after recording the accident, added: "We are happy to state that he was able to appear the following evening in four pieces."

INSTRUMENT IS USED TO MEASURE HEAT OF STARS

Radiometer Revelations Upset All Former Impressions.

Washington.—Using a radiometer, Dr. C. G. Abbott of the Smithsonian Institution, has succeeded in measuring the heat of the stars to the hundred millionth degree.

The experiments, which were carried on at Mount Wilson, Cal., with the aid of the great 100-inch reflector there, began in July, and the results are regarded by Smithsonian officials here as of the highest importance to natural scientists.

Nine stars were observed, Rigel, Vega, Sirius, Capella, Procyon, Aldebaran, Betelgeuse, Alpheratz and Hercules representing the principal types from the blue down to the very red ones.

"Astronomers have a very definite impression," said a statement at the institution, "based on other kinds of studies, as to what sort of results might be expected from these heat spectrum investigations. But the outcome proved a great surprise. For instance, Vega and Sirius are classed together as both blue-white hydrogen stars, with few lines showing in their photographic spectra and both supposedly nearly twice as hot as the sun.

Judge of the astonishment of the Mount Wilson observers to find Vega showing its maximum spectral heat a great way further toward the violet than Sirius, whose maximum heat is not very much nearer the violet than that of our sun. Still more remarkable is Rigel, for it shows two maxima. One occurs, as expected, quite as far toward the violet as that of Vega. But the other, the greater one, occurs very near that of the sun.

The new study, astronomers believe, will give a lever to attack the difficult task of learning the physical nature of the stars, although it was said that although the present device can measure one-hundred-millionth of a degree, the instrument for next year's work must be able to measure the billionth of a degree better.

The instrument used, known as the Nichols radiometer, consists of two vanes suspended by a thread of two quartz fibers, each one ten thousandth of an inch thick. When moved by a beam of light on one vane, the torsion of the twisting thread was communicated to a microscopic mirror and a beam of light was reflected on a scale.

Claims to Have Found New Cure for Pneumonia

At work in his laboratory, Dr. Leander Tomarkin, young Swiss biologist, whose discovery of a new cure for pneumonia has just been announced by Professor Marchiava, eminent Italian physician, at Rome, where Tomarkin has been engaged for a considerable time on research work in the Royal laboratories. It is claimed that "antimicrobium"—as he calls the complex chemical formula—reduces the mortality of pneumonia from 35 per cent to 2 per cent.

Count Works Way Across Atlantic as Ship Waiter

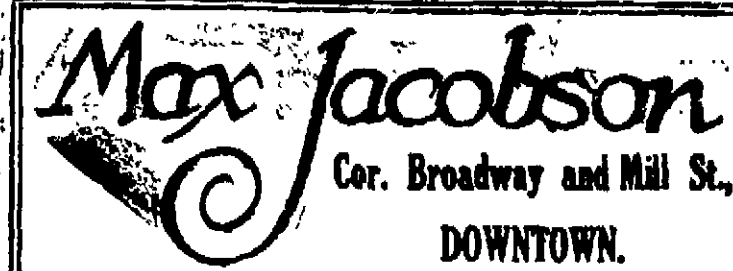

New York.—If Franz Josef Ludwig Gazzalotti hadn't tried so hard to keep himself from being called a "count" probably nobody on the steamer Ryndam would have dubbed him one. But, somehow, it leaked out that this man, who worked his way overseas as a waiter, was a scion of the old-time Austrian nobility. The "count" made these admissions: "My grandfather was a count and my father was wealthy. He educated me at the University of Kalksburg, where sons of nobility went to college. But I am ashamed to be called a count now. This is no day for counts. My family is down and out."

Speeder Gets 5 Days on Bread and Water

Des Moines, Ia.—Five days in jail on bread and water was the sentence passed by Judge Tom L. Sellers here upon W. A. ANCIENT PAPYRUS BOOK DISCOVERED

Gospel of St. John In Coptic Found by Explorers Searching Ruins Along Nile.

Washington.—A report on the work of the British School of Archaeology in Egypt in connection with the excavations at Ques-el-Kebir, recently made in London by W. M. Flinders Petrie of University College, shows that objects covering every period from the prehistoric to Coptic have been discovered.

The scene of the excavations carried on last winter is about thirty miles south of Assut. This place was the capital of a district said to have been important in the dark ages of the seventh and eighth dynasties, when its princes cut vast tombs in the cliffs of the Nile. The main result of the excavations has been in clearing the period between the sixth and eleventh dynasties.

"It is now found that the Syrian invaders, who formed the seventh and eighth dynasties, brought with them the geometric style of ornament, as well as the button badges," says the report. "In the geometric style the spirals became fret-patterns—as later in Greece.

St. John Gospel In Pet.

"The figures of men and animals were treated in cubist fashion and reduced to square angles, and the fancy ran on labyrinthic devices. There are indications that the square patterns belong rather to the Western tribes, while the round buttons with animal figures come from the Euphrates. People of these regions poured into Egypt, and though they adopted much that they found there, they kept up their original styles of ornament unaltered.

"A surprising discovery came from a pot buried in the open ground. It contained a bundle of papyrus, in which was a papyrus book of the gospel of St. John. This is a Coptic of the earliest style, being between that of the two foundations of Biblical manuscripts, the Vatican and Sinaitic codices.

Much of it is in perfect condition, and, though it had been roughly doubled up, but little is lost. This differs from the reprinted Coptic text (Sahidic) and will be decisive as to the nature of the Greek text first accepted in Egypt.

Another Historical Result.
"All the work has been directed by Mr. Brunton, assisted by other students, and it is hoped at an early date to work at this and other sites with a large staff.

"Another historical result has come from the tomb with Arameic inscriptions that I found in the previous season. The inscriptions have been studied by the only Arameic scholar in Egypt, Mr. Noel Glon, with photographs taken by the department of antiquities. He has sent a report saying there are references to Pharaoh Tirmahah and to Psammethos I. and Necho, his father.

"It seems that a Jewish or Syrian family was living at Cynopolis, over 100 miles south of Cairo, as early as the reign of Manesoh, eighty years before the destruction of the temple. They can hardly have been alone, and probably many other such families were seated between there and the frontier. All of these must have come through the Greek camp of Taphnephos and this implies a familiarity with Greek words and things in the midst of the age of the prophets. Criticism will have to take account of this in future."

Saves Wife, Children

From Burning Home

Winchester Va.—Carrying his three little children through smoke-filled hallways, with flames licking walls all around him, Ralph Rinker succeeded late at night in bringing them and his wife to safety through the fire which partly destroyed his home. Meanwhile Rinker's brother-in-law, Harry Worsley, and wife, occupying an apartment on the same floor, groped their way through smoke and reached the sidewalk.

Mr. Rinker said the first he knew of the house being afire was when he was awakened by a choking feeling in his throat. He grabbed his little ones, shouted to Mrs. Rinker to follow him, and, on their way to the main hallway on the second floor, awakened Mr. and Mrs. Worsley.

Note Found in Bottle

Tells of Old Shipwreck

Miami Fla.—A note, dated August 14, 1921, signed Joseph Floyd Moore of 501 Waverly way, Norfolk, Va., and saying he had been shipwrecked, was found in a bottle picked up on a beach near here.

The note, contained in a bottle picked up by Miss Josephine Follett of Detroit, Mich., said the writer had been in a shipwreck in the Bay of Biscay and had despaired of coming alive. It asked that his mother, Mrs. Emma L. Moore, be notified. The note was soaked in oil and much of it was undecipherable, including the name of the vessel. Miss Follett said she would go to Norfolk to notify the writer's mother.

FAIL TO REMOVE SPONGES AFTER MAJOR OPERATIONS

Doctor Cites 200 Cases Where Surgeons Were Negligent.

New York.—Advocating use of a continuous strip of gauze instead of sponges in surgical operations, Dr. H. S. Grossen, M.D., in the current issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association that he has traced a total of more than 200 cases in which a sponge was left in the abdominal cavity following an operation.

Some hospitals avoid this by having a string with a metal anchor attached to each sponge and left outside the body. Others make a count at the close of the operation of all sponges used, but this is not an infallible method, he said, because sponges sometimes are torn in two.

"The method," he said "of attaching a tape to each sponge and then fastening the tape to the tape and at the same time to the abdominal wall is probably the method in most general use. It has a record of many failures. The tape pulls off the sponge or there was a failure to attach the tape or the sponge failed to hold. In one recorded case the sponge, tape and sponges were all lost in the cavity."

Leaving up sponges often causes peritonitis and death. It is only in cases where postoperative are held that the presence of the sponge is detected, so that many such accidents are unrecorded. To persons outside the profession such an accident seems inconceivable, according to Doctor Grossen, who described some of the operating room conditions under which it occurred.

"Since it is to say," he continued, "that a review of the cases in which dependence was placed on counting shows an appalling list in which a sponge was left because one was hastily torn in two and one-half forgotten, or an extra one was primarily included in the bundle and missed in the counting, or an extra one was secured for an emergency during the operation, or some loose gauze, not intended for intraperitoneal use, slipped in while near the wound; or a mistake was made in the final count of sponges removed. It is astonishing what slight inattention may lead to a sponge being left, with all the consequences which such an accident entails."

Invents Device to Send Photos Via Wire or Radio

News photographs of important events, photographs of criminals and of finger prints, signatures for identification by banks—all these are dispatched via telegraph or radio by means of the new phototelegraph apparatus just completed by Marvin Ferree, a newspaper man of Cleveland. The apparatus is simply operated, is inexpensive and may be operated from any newspaper office equipped with an engraving plant. Likewise banks seeking immediate identification of signatures, police chiefs seeking trace or description of fugitives of the law may make use of the device that is very easily installed. The Ferree phototelegraph instrument closely resembles a radio receiving set and occupies about the same amount of space. Ferree has sent photos a distance of 900 to 1,000 miles via radio, and nearly 400 miles via wire. The principle employed is an electrochemical process consisting of two identical transmitting and receiving machines.

Artist Held for Tossing Pennies to Boy Diver

Personal friends of Bishop Rhinelander also presented a handsome gold watch.

FITE LECTURE SERIES IS ENDED

He Discusses Effect of 18th Amendment on Our Foreign Relations and Wishes We Were Out of Philippines.

The last of the series of lectures given by Dr. Emerson Fite, of the Vassar faculty, under the patronage of the Junior League, at the chapel of the First Dutch Church, occurred on Thursday afternoon, Dr. Fite has been lecturing on "Current Problems of Today," and spoke on Thursday afternoon about our disputes with Great Britain over the 18th amendment, our relations to the Philippines and the Panama Canal situation.

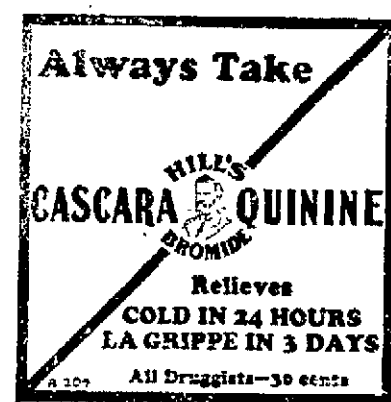

Taking up the matter of the 18th amendment and Great Britain, Dr. Fite said there could be no question that it applied to the land. Yet the question has been raised as to whether or not it applies to United States vessels on the high seas. During the war of 1812 and before, when Great Britain boarded American vessels, commercial carriers, and took off some of the crew who were British subjects, it was ruled that for any foreign power to board a United States vessel, flying the American flag and remove men was the same as though she entered an American city or carried off men. On the same principle if a man on an American commerce carrier committed a crime, far from the United States but on the vessel carrying the American flag, he must be tried by American law. In other words, an American vessel carrying the American flag is the same as American soil. So the Volstead act, carrying out the idea of the 18th amendment in detail, would apply to American vessels as well as to American land.

The next question to be raised was: "Does the amendment apply to foreign vessels in our ports?" Down to this time, any foreign vessel lying in our ports peacefully and creating no disturbance has been free from our jurisdiction, but if a murder were committed on the vessel or some other serious disturbance occurred, then we could arrest the men. So if the liquor on a foreign vessel was under bond, or under lock and key so that there was no disturbance, that vessel could go free.

That was according to international law, and we are not bound by international law. We ruled that that our law applied to vessels within our ports, which created a bad situation, hard for Great Britain coming into our ports with ships' stores of liquor on her vessels. What about vessels outside our jurisdiction? And how far must they be to be outside our jurisdiction? The three mile limit outside land of any country is the usual limit as it is here. Here we are at a disadvantage, for we cannot touch liquor on vessels beyond the three miles. It is just a challenge to break the law. The Britisher is disturbed that he cannot bring his liquor into our ports and we are disturbed that he can come so close and we cannot stop the smuggling going on right under our noses.

Dr. Fite said that according to the newspapers a treaty is being prepared between Great Britain and ourselves allowing America to chase smugglers twelve miles out and in return asking us the favor of allowing their ships to bring their liquor into port under lock and key. Then the question arises, "Can a treaty break down the law?" Dr. Fite said it could, in this way. According to our constitution, a treaty and the law of congress are both supreme, so that the last to be enacted holds good, and in this case it would be the treaty. Even so, there are still two interesting points to the smuggling problem. Suppose they are just a little outside of our jurisdiction, but still making trouble. According to what is known as "The Hovering Act," if some one on a vessel hanging around close to the limit, breaks the law, they will not be allowed to stay there. Again, if a smuggler's supply ship instead of trying to come into port itself, sends in little boats from the big boat, the courts rule that the little boat is part of the big boat which is held for the offense.

In considering our relations with the Philippines, Dr. Fite thought it well to approach the matter historically and see what lessons we should have learned about colonies. Take the American Revolution. We should have observed that where a colony is of the same race and language and degree of civilization as the mother country, the colony will not admit to having its laws made; its taxes levied; etc., without representation; it will demand some form of self government. We were not willing to have Great Britain send us our governors; who would appoint our upper house, allowing us only to choose the members of the lower house; nor were we willing that England should decide how taxes raised by us should be expended, etc., and we know the result. But England did not learn her lesson, so in a short time, 1837, British Canada demanded self government for the same reasons. In the end England sent a commission to Canada, showing that she had finally learned the obvious lesson of the American Revolution. So from time to time, Great Britain has been giving self government to her colonies in Australia, New Zealand, Newfoundland and South Africa. But it took her half a century to learn her lesson.

When in 1898 we took the Philippines from Spain did we show that we had learned our lesson from Great Britain's experience? No. What right had we to annex colonies in foreign territory? We sought our consciences by remembering the Louisiana purchase under treaty, for when nations make treaties, among other things they annex territory. Dr. Fite admitted this to be a very loose construction of the constitution, but he did it, even though it has not seemed to have been expedient. According to "Imperialism," it was our manifest destiny to take over the Philippines and Porto Rico; then there was the missionary and the commercial arguments. Boiled down, Dr. Fite said it was a case of "We ought to take them, because we're in it; God's in it; money's in it." So the lesson of 1776 did not stop us from annexing the Philippines and Porto Rico, and we sent governors who appointed members of the upper houses and allowed the members of the lower houses to be elected by the countries. The same old quarrels have arisen and the same trouble, and in the case of Porto Rico we had to amend the law, giving the people self government.

We have promised the Philippines self government, too, but when? If we were now to give the Philippines self government would they be able to protect themselves from aggressive Japan. Some say "No." There can be no question that the American flag in the Philippines moves us in Asiatic politics. We have thought that, previous to the earthquake, we might be confronting a war with Japan, and the lecture asked, "Are the Philippines worth war with Japan?" And what about the Panama Canal? In an event of war with Japan, would it not prove to be an outpost easy of access to the enemy, so that we ought to think carefully over the matter. And as far as the Philippines are concerned, might not the Japanese be just as good in their protection or ruling of the Philippines as we have been! Unfortunately we have planted our flag there and so feel that we ought to keep it there. Yet, we have not given the Philippines the whole of our constitution, but have given them parts and have withheld other parts, and it was Dr. Fite's judgment that he wished we were well out of the Philippines.

In closing, Dr. Fite said that he had tried in the course of lectures to present the leading points of current events most under discussion in Europe, the countries of South America, and Japan, and he expressed his appreciation of the excellent attendance at the lectures and the kindnesses shown him by Kingston people. There were many expressions of regret that the lectures were at an end.

LOCATE SITE OF REPTILIAN LIFE

"Paleontological Garden of Eden"
Is Discovered by Explorers
In Mongolia.

New York.—A 25-year-old prophecy that the origin of the reptilian and mammalian life of the world would be found in central Asia has been confirmed by fossil discoveries in central and western Mongolia made by the Asiatic expedition sent out from the American Museum of Natural History here. A "paleontological Garden of Eden" was found that gave forth indisputable evidence of the soundness of the theory, propounded in 1900 by Prof. Henry Fairfield Osborn, president of the museum.

These discoveries were made public here by Roy Chapman Andrews, leader of the Asiatic expedition and associate curator of mammals of the Eastern hemisphere at the museum, in an interview arranged through the courtesy of the American Museum of Natural History and Asia Magazine, under whose auspices the expedition was inaugurated.

The data accumulated by Mr. Andrews and his co-workers on the expedition include:

1. Definite proof that at the time when Europe and America were half-formed continents, barely emerging from the sea what is now central Asia and Tibet was a beautiful and fertile plateau land, abounding in vegetable and animal life.

2. The unearthing of the fossilized remains of the ancestors of the now extinct monsters which later migrated from this plateau land to other parts of the world, including Europe and America.

3. Confirmation of the assertion that a broad land connection between Asia and America by way of Alaska has existed, geologically speaking, until recent times. Remains of mammals known to have kept to the land, and whose fossilized descendants have been found in America, were brought to light by the expedition.

4. Although no direct evidence was found bearing on the ancestry of man, the theory of his central Asian origin was strongly reinforced. It is believed that the forerunners of the human race would have found a favorable environment for development in the type of country which existed during Tertiary times in what is now Mongolia.

A find of 25 specimen eggs of the dinosaur, a large reptile of the lower Cretaceous period, was made by George Olsen, a paleontologist on the staff of the expedition. These are the first dinosaur eggs ever known to the world, although several natural scientists have conjectured that the reptile laid eggs. Inside several of them, which are estimated to be from 7,000,000 to 10,000,000 years old, were found the skeletons of embryonic dinosaurs. Some of the eggs were in almost perfect condition.

Dinosaur's Ancestor.
Mr. Andrews declared that the American nation had a unique scientific collection in the 70 skulls of the protoceratops, which show the development of the animal from shortly after birth to old age. The protoceratops was discovered in Mongolia and proved to be ancestral to the great frilled, horned dinosaur of America, he said.

Last year the Asiatic expedition gave to the world the skull of the largest herbivorous animal ever known. This was the Baluchitherium, which resembled a giant rhinoceros. Within the last few months the expedition added to this find a splendid skull of the largest flesh-eating mammal heretofore discovered. According to the reconstruction of experts with the expedition, it was a huge hyena-like animal, 30 feet in length, 6 or 7 feet high, and with a jaw spread of about 2 feet. It is thought that it fed on carrion. The skull bears a resemblance to that of the mesonyx, specimens of which have been found in the Uinta mountains in Utah.

The Asiatic expedition has now been running for three years, and is scheduled to run for two more. But to stop work in Mongolia, "the largest and richest fossil field in the world," after only two more years, would be abandoning a veritable gold mine of data, declared Mr. Andrews. His presence in New York is prompted by a desire to continue the work for five years more and the consequent necessity of financing the extended project, he explained.

Man Meets Death in Blazing Oil Room

FASHION DISPLAY FEATURE OF MID-WINTER CLUB DANCE

In conjunction with a dance given by the Mid-Winter Dance Club at the 1017 Carlton Hotel, a fashion show consisting of gowns, wraps and costume suits, was staged, screen and stage stars acting as mannequins.

Sports costumes for Palm Beach wear opened the revue, and were of the three piece type. A white matisse suit sponsored the new Chinese red in its figured motifs and blouse of Roman crepe, while a Jaquette stimulating crocheting favored the shades of brown and tan.

For afternoon wear, more elaborate suits consisting of three quarter length coats and dresses were displayed. Silks and cloths were represented in the fabrics employed and were elaborated with borders of braid, sometimes in looped effect. A noteworthy suit of this type was developed in cinnamon brown top. The three-quarter coat and dress featured borders of braid combined with flat wooden heads, which were circular and triangular in shape.

Two afternoon dresses included in the display also favored cinnamon brown. One of these affected the pure treatment in the skirt. A black velvet frock which was most attractive and youthful was combined with black and white blocked taffeta showing cross stripes of gold and silver metal threads.

Evening gowns seemed partial to metal cloth and velvet. Red velvet was the only decoration seen on a silver cloth gown showing a pointed tunic and velvet hem.

Luxurious evening wraps were included in the display and these too, sponsored velvet and metal cloth in broad effects. Several of the wraps were reversible and most of them bloused at the waist. One wrap of this genre, collared and cuffed in soft black lynx, was developed in gold metal cloth combined with a gold cloth showing velvet discs. A blue velvet coat, was effectively used with a gold and black brocade.

The evening gowns worn under these enveloping wraps were of chiffon in high shades, all of them elaborately beaded, one of them in the ombre effect.

M. Kerley 33 E. StrandGRADE CROSSINGS
HAVE POTENT FOE

Governor Smith to Ask Legislature to Eliminate as Many of More Dangerous Ones as Possible—Would Cost $200,000,000 to Abolish All.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Albany, Dec. 14.—State authorities here are firmly convinced the time is not far distant when every grade crossing in the state will be eliminated.

C. R. Vanneman, chief engineer of the public service commission, has estimated it would cost the state in the neighborhood of $200,000,000 to wipe out the countless rail death from one end of the state to the other.

State officials, however, from Governor Smith down, feel that every cent that the state spends toward eliminating the grade crossings is far from wasted. They do not believe that human lives can be sacrificed at any expense.

One of the salient points in Governor Smith's plan, it is understood, will deal with the necessity for the elimination of the most dangerous of grade crossings.

The recent accident at a grade crossing at Forsythe, near Dunkirk, in the western part of the state which took a toll of nine lives with many injured, has so aroused the governor that he is preparing to use it as an argument in his annual message regarding the necessity for the wiping out of such crossings.

The governor has asked the public service commission to submit to him all details it has in connection with the order of 1922 to substitute an overhead bridge at the Forsythe crossing. Through court procedure instituted by the Nickel Plate railroad, the order of the commission has been held up.

Scores of lives are lost in this state every year through accidents at grade crossings. With the constantly increasing number of automobiles, the state authorities fear the number of accidents at the crossings will keep on growing.

Some of the crossings are more dangerous than others, and it is these that state officials feel should be eliminated first.

In the elimination of the crossings the railroads would be called upon to stand part of the expense. The work of wiping out these death traps has been going on for some years, but very slowly, and if Governor Smith has his way it will be speeded up during the next year.

BIG SAVINGS MADE THROUGH RESEARCH

Modern Laboratory Supplies Garret Genius.

Herbert Hoover's recent assertion that discovery and invention are no longer the function of the garret genius is borne out by the facts of modern industry, according to the American Chemical society, which has assembled data showing national enrichment through organized research. Sugar, water supply, bread making, X-rays, electric lighting, waste material and artificial silk are spheres in which research has earned huge dividends. It is declared.

"The life of locomotive boilers has been lengthened sevenfold and the coal consumed in operation reduced by many millions of tons per year through the application of research to water supply on our railroads," says the society in a summary of American achievements in research. "The life of a locomotive firebox costing $1,700 on a certain bad water was two years. After treating the water properly to prevent corrosion the steel lasted 14 years, making a saving of more than $700 per locomotive per year.

"Waste utilized to prevent other waste is often the result of research. Ten tons more cane an acre, equivalent to one ton raw sugar, and 50 to 70 per cent less labor in the field, has followed the use of a paper made from waste cane bagasse in the cane fields of Hawaii to prevent the growth of weeds.

"Organized and continuous research on the lighting problem has produced types of lamps with which this country's lighting bill in a single year is $1,000,000 less than the cost of the same amount of light if the best lamps available less than 20 years ago had been used. This represents a saving, among other things, of 25,000,000 tons of coal.

"Through research wood pulp and other cellulose materials valued at approximately 5 cents a pound have been converted into artificial silk valued at an average of $250 a pound. The value of the artificial silk produced in the United States is now about $45,000,000 a year.

"The modern efficient X-ray tube is distinctly a product of research, and is becoming more and more a tool for further research. Its uses in treating disease, in watching the functions of the vital organs in the human body and in detecting foreign substances in living and inanimate bodies are well known. The use of X-rays in determining the constitution of matter (space arrangement of atoms in the molecules) is still in its infancy, but results already achieved indicate that future accomplishments in this field will be of extreme importance in the solution of this problem."

Four generations of rats have subsisted normally on a new bread product developed through research. It was said. These rats are far more robust on this "complete diet" than another group of rats fed on the bread of previous processes. Experiments on human beings are now in progress.

Another triumph of research, says the society, is a food for yeast consisting of a mixture of mineral salts, which, it is claimed, prevents a yearly waste in the fermentation process of 200,000 barrels of flour, 80,000 barrels of sugar and 15,000,000 pounds of yeast. The total savings aggregate $5,000,000 annually.

Desperate Case.
The medical student was listening to the conversation of two hospital surgeons.

"After the crash," one of them was saying, "I ran over to where it lay on the pavement, and when I raised it up I saw at once that several ribs were smashed, while a gaping hole was torn in the—"

The student was keen on accident cases and here he broke in:
"Excuse me, doctor," he said, "but if you have no objection I'd like to take a few notes of this case."

He pulled his notebook out of his pocket and asked:
"Was it a man or a woman?"

"Neither," the surgeon informed him. "I was talking about my umbrella."

Fair Warning to Muskrats.
Fur fashions will keep muskrat trappers busy again this season on the south Jersey marshes, as prevailing high prices for pelts will be an incentive for natives to set many trap lines when legal catches are permitted after November 15. The trapping season will be shortened by a month. Under the new game laws it will close on March 1. Meadow and marsh owners are making their leases to trappers at annual rentals that exceed the profits from the best of their field crops on high land. Several of the trappers clean up from $2,500 to $4,000 in the winter.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Haiti Eradicates Rabies.
When the American sanitary service found itself confronted with an epidemic of rabies in Port au Prince it went to the heart of the matter by going after the dogs, the numberless dogs that infest the city streets, and remind world travelers of Constantinople, so they tell us. The citizens were given due notice, and then a liberal supply of poisoned meat was distributed throughout the city. The resulting mortality met the most sanguine expectations, and the menace of rabies came to an end.

SALVINSKI SAID "STICK 'EM UP"

But George Haupt, Who Has Been Acquitted, Fired Shot That Killed Trooper Donovan, Swear Troopers Morrissey and Kirsch.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Ballston Spa, Dec. 14.—Matthew Salvinski of Albany, on trial for first degree murder here in connection with the slaying of State Trooper Roy A. Donovan of Pine Hill, was the man who with flashlight and revolver held up Donovan's car on the Saratoga Springs-Glens Falls road early on the morning of October 8 and ordered the occupants to "stick 'em up," it was testified Thursday by State Troopers John J. Morrissey and Peter F. Kirsch.

Troopers Morrissey and Kirsch, who were the second and third witnesses called by District Attorney Charles B. Andrus, testified they were with Donovan in the car when he was shot and killed.

Both said George Haupt of Albany, who was acquitted of Donovan's murder last month, was with Salvinski and fired the shot which killed Donovan. Salvinski did not fire any shots they said. More than 200 persons crowding the court room to the doors, heard the troopers tell their stories. Nine prosecuting witnesses were called today, and several more will be called tomorrow. It is expected Salvinski will take the stand this afternoon in his fight for life.

DEMPSEY WON'T FIGHT UNTIL JUNE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Dec. 14.—Jack Dempsey, heavy-weight champion, said here today that he has abandoned all fight plans for the immediate future. Not until the sun shines warm enough to allow a million dollar gate at one of Tex Rickard's arenas, probably a new one seating 125,000 people under contemplation on Long Island, will the champion again don the mitts.

Today Dempsey, who is here for the holidays, took up rehearsal of a snappy line of chatter to be passed to the public as "wise cracks" from the vaudeville stage. He is also rehearsing a dance step.

Jack Kearns, manager of the champion, who may team with Dempsey in the vaudeville turn, said:

"We won't fight until June at least. We'll give Firpo first crack unless the unforeseen develops. We're going to keep in condition, however, taking Teddy Hayes and Jerry the Greek along on the theatrical trip for training. This stuff about us—Dempsey I mean, going to get married—is all wrong. We're not going to Europe as advertised."

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

The pattern is cut in 7 sizes: 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48 inches bust measure. A 38 inch size requires 4 1/4 yards of 36 inch material. K. OF C. ENTERTAINMENT AND DANCE GREATLY ENJOYED

The entertainment and dance given at the Knights of Columbus Hall Thursday evening was very largely attended. David Schenck, chairman of the entertainment committee, was very highly commended for securing the very pleasing entertainment. The entertainers were Mr. Baker and Mr. and Mrs. Stone. Mr. Baker mystified the audience with sleight of hand tricks and "spiritualism," and also proved to be a good humorist. As a ventriloquist he also was several times encored.

Stone and Stone were high class musicians, playing on the piano, banjo, saxophone, violin and a number of one-stringed instruments constructed by Mr. Stone. To the accompaniment of the piano, selections were given on a number 8 buck saw and a toy balloon, these last mentioned selections were very entertaining. Mrs. Stone also favored with a number of songs and some "good jokes."

The hall was very prettily and tastefully decorated for the occasion presenting a most unusual sight as the couples danced around the hall following the entertainment program. Refreshments were also served by Mrs. L. Dugan, caterer, which as usual were most delicious. Dancing continued until a late hour.

Free Methodist Church Services.

Greatest Price Offered for Rogers Hornsby.

Charles H. Ebbets, owner of the Brooklyn National League club, created a sensation in Chicago when he offered $275,000 cash for Rogers Hornsby, leading slugger in the National League, who is at odds with the St. Louis Nationals. As Ebbets had no players to offer the proffer was rejected.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the best healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while absorbed into the stomach, it attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to serious complications.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

TO MAKE A UNIQUE GIFT

A lovely accessory for the dressing table which would make a delightful gift is a covered perfume bottle stationed in its own booth (Fig. 3). Ribbons and glue are used throughout, saving much time that is spent in cutting and hemming materials. The cardboard foundation shown in Fig. 1 is bent to form four equal walls which are padded and lined and covered with sapphire blue satin ribbon (Fig. 2). Bound with gold ribbon having a picot edge and is adorned with ribbon flowers glued to the outside walls.

Fig. 3 shows the bottom of the booth which is likewise covered with ribbon and padded. The bottle itself is covered with a brocade ribbon.

Mother Was Particular.

A mistress nursed her maid through a bad attack of measles and then sent her away for a week's holiday. On her return the girl gave notice. "What?" exclaimed the amazed mistress. "After I've nursed you through your illness?" "That's just it, mum," replied the girl; "mother's particular anxious that I should be with a lady, and she says no lady would have nursed a servant."

Length of Cubit.

Cubit comes from a Latin word meaning elbow. The cubit is the distance from the elbow to the extremity of the middle finger. Owing to variations in this length in different persons, the following standard cubits were adopted by the ancients: Hebrew, 17.58 inches; Egyptian, 20.61 inches; Romans, 17.4 inches; Greek, 18.25 inches.

Has a Greek Name.

The generic name of the squirrels—Sciurus—is derived from Greek words which mean "a creature that sits under his tail," says Nature Magazine, and this most admirably describes him. The tail, however, is not a useless ornament, but serves its owner well in various ways.

Squirrels in Winter.

What do squirrels do in winter? All do not hibernate, says Nature Magazine. To be sure they are not abroad so much, nor are they as active, in the cold weather as during the summer months, but neither the red nor the gray squirrel has any period of continued sleep.

Some Dangers Avoided.

So far not many of the girls are reported as injuring their health by overwork helping their mothers. And it is not claimed either that the boys are usually hurting their eyes by too much studying at night.—Newark Advocate.

Origin of "Best Man."

Tradition relates that a best man was employed in the stone age. The bridegroom swooned down upon the home of the bride and stole her away while the best man diverted the attention of the bride's father.

Meaning of "Pekoe."

The name "pekoe" of orange pekoe tea is derived from the Chinese words "Pah ho" which mean "white hairs" and refers to the small white pieces in this tea which look like stems but are the finest part of the leaf.

Curious Web of Water Spider.

The water spider builds its home under water. It collects air on the surface and conveys it underneath. After many journeys there is sufficient air in the web for the spider to remain below for a considerable time.

Balaac a Prodigious Worker.

It was Balaac's boast that "A Woman of Thirty" was finished in a fortnight. "I would mean about 20,000 words a week. He was a prodigious worker, and thought nothing of working 18 hours a day.

Plum Disease.

Susceptibility of different varieties of plums to the brown rot disease can now be determined mechanically by measurements of the toughness of the skin and firmness of the flesh of the fruit.

Hubby Can Help.

Before a girl promises to marry she should remember, says the Jewel Republican, that there will be nineteen thousand dishes to wash, just for two, every year.

Knowledge.

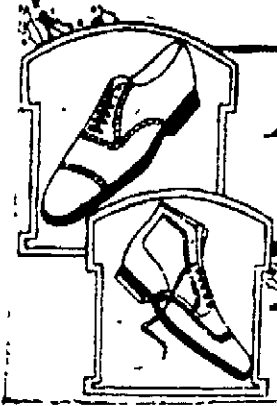

Pleasure is a shadow, wealth is vanity and power a pageant, but knowledge is ecstatic in enjoyment, unlimited in space and infinite in duration.

Electric Fans in India.

The use of electric fans instead of the hand-pulled pumpah, and of electric lights instead of coconut oil lamps is rapidly increasing in conservative India.

The Lucky Man.

Jud Tunkins says a man who tells you everything happens for the best is generally somebody who has been pretty lucky one way or another.

A Glorious Gift.

Do Yanks and Japs hate one another? Three thousand beautiful Japanese cherry trees in Washington, D. C. whisper "no." They were the gift of the city of Tokio to the city of Washington in 1912, as a token of friendship. To the Japanese the cherry blossom has a symbolism akin to that of the bluebird in other countries, and they speak of it as "Sakura—Symbol of Happiness." Blossom time is a season of rejoicing which takes the form of a national fete.

The Woman Who Loves.

As an old student of life, I should say the most beautiful and helpful thing in it is the respect, confidence and love of an agreeable woman. And I beg you men who enjoy this blessing not to throw it away heedlessly. A woman who loves you is entitled to fair treatment; and many devoted women do not get it. A just master longest retains his power. If there is anyone entitled to justice, to gentleness and appreciation from a man, it is the woman who devotedly loves him.—E. W. Howe's Monthly.

POOLING ORDERS SAVES THESE DAIRYMEN MONEY.

How one group of dairymen in the Sherman Dairy Improvement Association has pooled its winter's feed orders, thereby effecting a saving of from 15 to 25 cents a hundred pounds for its members, is one of the interesting facts reported by E. C. Haff, the tester of that association.

Tester B. E. Mullaney, of the Western Allegany Association, reports a similar attempt at pooling, and says that some of the farmers are much disappointed because their arrangement could not be carried through.

Other reports of testers show the keen interest farmers throughout the state are showing in the matter of feeding.

Several, for example, tell of new silos being erected. I. G. Payne, of the Columbia-Rensselaer Association, is one of the dairymen who felt so severely the effects of not having sufficient succulent feed the past year that he has taken out insurance against a similar situation this winter by building a silo.

Xmas Seals Tax Exempt.

That the purchase of health bonds and Christmas Seals is a legitimate deduction in computing federal income tax is the ruling of the commissioner of internal revenue who says one can buy these community health securities up to 15 per cent of his income and deduct same in figuring his income tax.

Tea and Cigarettes.

English novels are always drenched with tea, and in American novels the characters are always lighting cigarettes.

SCREAM OF THE DOG FOX

Rarest and the Most Unearthly Animal Yell to Be Heard in North America.

Suddenly the stillness of a New Jersey countryside was broken by a perfectly appalling scream. Although I recognized what it was, my muscles jerked and twitched at the sound, and when it was repeated my companion, even though a veteran naturalist, gripped me so tightly that his fingerprints showed black on my arm the next morning.

It was the scream of a fox, probably the most sinister, unearthly wild animal note that can be heard in North America. The howl of the wolf and screech of the wildcat, or bay lynx, are all weird sounds, to say nothing of the frightful shriek which the horned owl sometimes gives, but none of them begins to be as fearful as the scream of a dog fox.

Usually he barks like a dog that is just learning how, and the vixen squalls and squawks like a heron; but none of these sounds can ever be confounded with his scream, as rare and dreadful as that screech of a wounded horse which frightened even Hawkeye and Chingachgook.

A fox scream is not usually heard more than a few times in a lifetime. My first experience with the sound was on Cream Hill, up in Cornwall, Conn., one dark night when I was a boy—it was several years ago.

I was passing the Half Moon lot, whose thirty acres include a number of fox dens, and just as I reached Boundary elm, a vast tree which marked the corners of four farms, I heard a fearful scream in the darkness close at hand which I instantly recognized as the screech of a black panther.

Not having with me a rifle, a tomahawk, or even the long, keen hunting knife with which all the heroes of Harry Castleman and Mayne Reid, my authorities on panthers, black and blond, were always armed, I was somewhat at a disadvantage. In fact, a hurried examination of my pockets showed no more deadly weapon than a slate pencil.

However, I did not lose my presence of mind. Realizing instantly that flight was what the emergency required, I flew. At least I do not remember touching the ground until I crossed the bridge over the brook at the foot of the hill half a mile away. At the time I felt that it was a very narrow escape and that I probably owed my life to the cool daring with which I had met the situation. In later years, however, since I learned that my black panther was really a red fox, I have had my doubts.—Samuel Scoville in Century Magazine.

Limitation of Planes.

Limitation of air armament through an international conference is proposed in an editorial in the current issue of the American Legion Weekly. The sea-power question has been settled through the Washington conference and the land-power problem has been settled theoretically by the reduction of armies, but the air-power question has not been touched. It is pointed out. Delay in calling the conference complicates the situation and increases the dangers, the Legion publication says.

Originality in Writing.

If we accept the doctrine of criticism today, originality is a great virtue in a writer, and if we believe the book advertisements, all the new writers as they appear, and as they reappear, have this virtue to a striking, even to an explosive extent. But with all their originality, some of the new books turn out to be dull, and if we reconsider for a moment the books men have finally judged great, we observe that they were rather destitute of the kind of originality we talk of nowadays.

Schiff Sees Coolidge on Debt Plans.

Mortimer Schiff

Mortimer Schiff, New York financier, is shown leaving the White House in Washington where he conferred with President Coolidge in connection with the American experts who are to be named to the Commission that will inquire into Germany's ability to pay reparations. Mr. Schiff is expected to head the American experts.

U. S. Coast Trade Big.
The great length of our sea and lake coasts, the number of good harbors and the fact that most of the coast region of the United States has been settled makes the coast trade of this country the most extensive in the world.

PLUMBING BOARD ELECTS OFFICERS

At the annual meeting of the plumbing board held at the city hall, the following officers were re-elected: President, George Canfield; Treasurer, Lester Legg; Secretary, Charles H. Gregory. The board also adopted its budget, which is the same amount asked for last year.

A Valuable Egg.
Some time ago The Freeman acknowledged receipt of samples of a 2,000 bushel crop of potatoes from St. Joseph's, near Port Jervis, weighing about one pound each, and a letter from the farmer saying that Sullivan county excelled in potato growing because its residents "knew how," it being intimated that Ulster county was a bit backward in this respect. No evidence has arrived at The Freeman office to dispute the assertion, but this morning's mail enables us to "say it in eggs" if we can't in potatoes. One egg was received, 3 1/2 inches long and weighing 4 1/2 ounces and worth at current prices about thirty cents, a wagon-load of German marks or a lot of hard coal. The egg was laid by a Rhode Island Red hen belonging to Thomas Ketterson of Rural Route 4, Saugerties, on December 13, who forwarded it to The Freeman without any comment as to the condition of the hen which it is presumed is "doing nicely."

Forged in 1300 B. C.
Some French engineers have just been entrusted with the chemical analysis of an ax brought back from Salonica where it was found in a tomb. From a study of the ground in which the ax lay scholars have made sure that it dates back to 1300 B. C., and our knowledge of the Macedonian people of that time is very scanty. The question the experts set themselves to answer was whether the ax belongs to the Copper Age or to the more recent Age of Brass; and examining a piece of the metal with the microscope and by electrical analysis, they were able to show that the metal of the ax is 99 per cent copper, with some arsenic and very small proportions of tin, lead, iron, and traces of silver, that the ax was made from metal that had been cast and forged. The result of its chemical analysis shows us the value of modern science in throwing light on the ancient world.

Skipper a Dutch Word.
Our word "ship" is a variety of the Dutch "schip." In old days English people called the sailor the "shipman," while in Holland the mariner was called the "schipper," or, as we pronounce it, the skipper. Since there could be only one sailor in command, the shipman or the skipper gradually came to mean the master mariner. In the days when New York and Cape Town were Dutch colonies they were the greatest sea race. Blake and Cloudesley Shovel swept their fleets off the seas; but they left their word skipper in our sea terms to remind us of their ancient glory.

Voters Are Like That, Too.
"Stretch a rope across a country path, about a foot and a half from the ground. Then drive a herd of sheep over. When the leader has jumped that elevated rope, lower it to the ground and note what happens. Every sheep in the flock that follows will jump a foot and a half in the air over that same rope, though it is now lying slack on the ground. They follow the leader blindly, unreasoningly, without regard to changed conditions. They don't jump for the same reason the leader jumped, but just because they saw another sheep jump a given height, at a given spot."—Carlyle.

Beastly Language.
Certainly dogs understand language and sometimes seem to try and make sounds resembling words. A French scientist tried to teach a monkey to talk, and got it to say "feu" (French for fire) whenever a match was struck. The scientist smiled when asked why he did not teach the animal English. Really the animal enjoyed blowing out the flame! It has been estimated that the maximum vocabulary of monkeys is about thirty "words"—a word being a definite cry common to all members of the species, and indicative of an emotion.

Not Her Dead Husband.
The lady had just lost her husband and had gone to a summer hotel to rest. She often dreamed of her husband and she would sometimes get up in the middle of the night to see if he wasn't walking about. Any little disturbance caused her to be frightened. One night mysterious raps were heard on the walls of the summer hotel. "Great goodness," cried the frightened woman in room 13, "I wonder if that could be my departed husband?" "No," growled the man in room 14, "it's the people on the other floors killing mosquitoes with their slippers."

Unexpected Grandeur.
"What do you think about this third party?"
"Didn't know it was that big!" exclaimed Farmer Cornfassel.
"How big do you mean?"
"Big enough to think about!"—Washington Star.

Progressives in Fight on Senator Cummins.

Senator Albert B. Cummins

The work of organizing the United States Senate was delayed by the fight of the Progressive element of the Republican Party in opposing United States Senator Albert B. Cummins, of Iowa, for the chairmanship of the powerful Interstate Commerce Commission, which will dominate railroad legislation.

Olive Growing.

The region in which the olive may be successfully grown for commercial production of fruit in the United States is not so great as for most other hardy fruits. Commercial olive growing has been confined to portions of California and Arizona, although the trees will live and bear some fruit in portions of all of the southern states of this country.

HARDING FUND DEPOSITORY HERE

This is Harding Memorial Fund Week throughout the United States when an effort is being made to raise a fund of at least $3,000,000 to erect a suitable memorial to the late president.

The Rondout National Bank has been designated as one of the banks where subscriptions to this fund may be deposited by any desiring to contribute. All who contribute $1 or more will receive an engraved certificate. All funds received by the bank will be forwarded to the Harding Memorial Headquarters in Washington.

The Born Countryman.

It is difficult, likely impossible, to determine how far the born countryman is susceptible to the beauty of his surroundings—to the cloud-shadows on the hills, the ripple in the red wheat, the sun gleam on coppice and hedgerow, to the autumn's feeling gold; yet I know that he does not. He has seen his eye gleam as he noted them; and I know, too, that it is not possible for one so weatherwise and weather-wary not to value that which he regards so profoundly and studies day by day with ever fresh application. Townspeople are too apt to argue from expression; but expression is just what the countryman lacks. A thing is felt, pondered, stored up; the thought lies too deep for tears, or laughter either, and certainly is not suited for minor poetry. You enjoy talking about it; I enjoy letting it soak in; as the gypsy woman said to the tourist about the sunset.—Maurice Hewlett.

African Termites.

Before the Biological Society, London, a paper was read describing the studies of the African termites, or white ants. Certain individuals in every nest have no other apparent function except that of fighters or soldiers. Some have a long beak, from which they eject an acid corrosive fluid; others inspire terror by making a loud clicking noise with their mandibles, but let neither shoot nor bite. One singular observation of the naturalist was that the soldier ants, which rush out to defend an attacked nest, do not return to the nest, but wander about, and soon perish from exposure to the outside air.

Brave Queen Bees.

Nearly a thousand vessels pass Tilbury, England, every day, where a Sailors' Rest has just been opened by the British and Foreign Sailors' society. The Thames is very deep here, and the docks offer special facilities to craft of every kind, from the largest Australian liners to the humblest cargo boat. It was here that Queen Elizabeth reviewed her troops in 1388 when the Armada invasion was threatened, using the memorable words, "I know I have the body of a weak, feeble woman, but I have the heart and stomach of a king, and of a king of England, too!"

Cold Greater Than Arctic's.

Cold, many times lower than any temperature found existing naturally on the face of the earth, is used in making helium for the government's balloons and dirigibles. By a secret process, natural gas subjected to tremendous pressure turns to liquid at 317 degrees below zero, and the helium is drawn off. To change nitrogen gas into a solid would require a temperature of 333 degrees below zero. A piece of raw meat subjected to such freezing would shatter to bits. If dropped on a hard floor while a pencil would burst into splinters.—Popular Mechanics.

Next of Confetti.

A lady writes from Boscombe, Eng., to "Bird Notes and News": "I wish you could have seen a confetti's nest that one of the reds showed me. It was built near the railway station, and a cat had pulled it down. We thought at first it had the usual lichen and moss on the outside, but closer examination showed the helens to be white confetti, with 'labeled' edges, and the moss was the green best used to tie up flowers, all woven in and wrinkled up to resemble moss. There had evidently been a wedding party at the station."

Figs Good Food.

Both fresh and dried figs are wholesome, and, weight for weight, figs contain more nutrient properties than bread. Figs have laxative properties and furnish heat and energy to the body.

ELLENVILLE. OBERAMMERGAU CHRISTUS IN AMERICA.

Ellenville, Dec. 14.—The New Invalle Garage opened in Ellenville on Thursday, December 13. This new building on the corner of Main and Canal streets is one of Ellenville's most outstanding features. People both in Ellenville and in the surrounding towns are speaking highly of this big business achievement.

On Thursday evening a dance was given for the benefit of the Veterans' Memorial Hospital, under the charge of Miss May Van Dusen. The Marshall-Jensen Company has generously offered the profits of the day's business to the hospital.

A telephone has been installed in the Invalle Garage, which will be used exclusively for fire and police calls. When the phone rings a signal light will be flashed outside the building.

A part of a chimney over Rosenstock's store fell on the sidewalk on Market street several days ago while men were repairing the roof. Fortunately there was no one injured.

Bruce Moore, secretary of the Ulster County Agricultural Society, who has been in the southern states exhibiting his poultry, has been spending several days in Ellenville. He expects to return to Florida shortly where his exhibit is being shown.

Miss Ruth Carmen has returned from a week's stay in New York city. Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Sniley and daughter, Miss Elizabeth Smiley, will spend the holidays with their daughters, Mrs. Theodore Comstock and Mrs. Lewis Ohlroge, at Glen Ridge, N. J., at which time a reunion of the Smiley family will be held.

The Epworth League meeting at the Methodist Church on Sunday evening will be led by Mrs. Marian Fordham. The theme will be, "Gems from books we have read."

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Reformed Church will be held at the home of Mrs. Raymond G. Cox on Thursday afternoon, December 20th, at 3 o'clock. A Christmas service will be held.

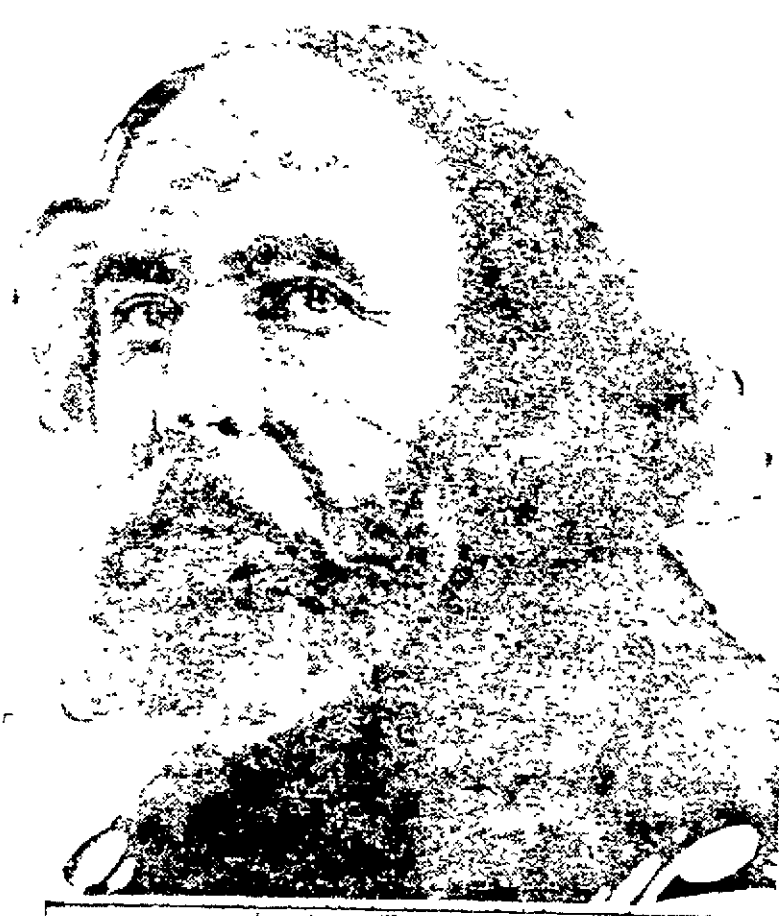

The Pythian Sisters held a meeting for the election of officers on Thursday evening, December 13th. Following the meeting a dime social was enjoyed.

Mrs. Henry Lepke of Ulster Heights is spending some time in Richmond Hill, Long Island, N. Y., at the home of her mother, who has been very ill. During her absence, her little daughter, Dorothy, is staying with Mrs. Otto Johnson at Ellenville.

Miss Cora Low of Upper Canal street, who was severely injured last week by falling when struck by a bicycle on Canal street, near the new tea store, is reported recovering. She has for a few days been able to sit up for a short time.

A party will be given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Mosher at Ulster Heights on Wednesday evening, December 18th, the proceeds of which are to be used for the Sunday school children for Christmas. Refreshments will be served. A large attendance is desired.

Big Line to Buck.

Anton Lang, world famous "Christus" of the Oberammergau Passion Play, presented every ten years in the little town in Bavaria, has arrived in New York with the purpose to exhibit their Passion Play in the United States.

IRENE CASTLE AND HER THIRD HUSBAND.

Major & Mrs. Frederick McLaughlin

Irene Castle, famous dancer and widow of Captain Vernon Castle who fell to death while flying in the British Air Force during the World War has taken a third husband following her divorce from Captain Robert Tremman, of Ithaca, N. Y. She is now honeymooning in the Orient with her third husband, Major Frederick McLaughlin, Chicago millionaire. This is the first picture of the couple taken before they sailed from San Francisco.

THROWS COOLIDGE'S HAT INTO RING.

Coolidge, Frank W. Stearns & W. M. Butler

Calvin Coolidge and his closest friend and adviser, announced that William M. Butler, of Boston, has been selected by Mr. Coolidge to manage his campaign.

Leads Coolidge Fight for Nomination.

William M. Butler

William M. Butler, of Boston, Republican National Committeeman from Massachusetts and for years a friend of Calvin Coolidge has been appointed to manage the Coolidge campaign for the White House.

Origin of "Mister" — Mister was originally used as a title, but only in speaking of a man of high social rank, or learning. It gradually was extended in application, but has been superseded by "Mr." The obscure pronunciation doubtless began while the written form, "Mister," was still commonly employed. Before the end of the seventeenth century the abbreviation "Mr." (original only one among many others used for the word in all applications) had come to be restricted to the use in which the pronunciation was obscured, and to be the only permitted mode of writing the word in that use. Henceforward "Mister" and "Mr." were practically two words.

Feats of Strength. — There have recently come to light some extraordinary feats of strength by a Hindoo woman who is declared by competent observers to be a person of greater physical prowess than the renowned Sadhu. The woman in question is Miss Tarabai, born some twenty years ago in a village in Rajputana. One of her remarkable feats is to lie upon the ground and permit a cart laden with men to be drawn across her chest and arms. Suspended between two chairs by her head and feet Miss Tarabai had a stone weighing a quarter of a ton placed upon her chest while two men pounded upon it with heavy sledge hammers.

INSURGENTS OFFER COUZENS

If Regular Republican Senator Will Not Accept Him as Transportation Chairman Insurgents Will Throw Votes to Democrats, Electing Smith.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, Dec. 14.—A break in the senate deadlock over election of a chairman of the interstate commerce committee appeared certain today from peace negotiations launched by the insurgent group of progressives.

The insurgents were reported willing to compromise their fight against Senator Albert B. Cummins of Iowa, by the election of Senator James Couzens, Republican of Michigan, to the chairmanship. This offer, sent through "diplomatic channels" was being considered by Republican leaders.

If accepted the progressives will abandon their fight against Republican organization of the senate when balloting on the chairmanship is resumed Monday. If rejected the progressives say they will vote solidly for Senator Ellison D. Smith of South Carolina, a Democrat, thus insuring his election and giving nominal control of railroad legislation to the Democrats.

3 INDICTED AT CATSKILL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Catskill, N. Y., Dec. 14.—Mrs. Charles Rothenberg, Mrs. Esther Litt and Burtzell Branaugh are the three persons indicted by the Greene county grand jury in connection with the murder of 7 year old Howard Rothenberg, it was revealed today when the indictments were handed up to Judge Wesley Howard.

The indictments were not filed but were handed to counsel for the accused persons. The lawyers demanded an opportunity to examine them before they are filed. Filing is scheduled for 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Mrs. Rothenberg is the slain child's mother. Mrs. Litt is his aunt and Branaugh is the son of an inn-keeper at the fashionable summer colony at Windham.

Two of the trio were charged with the actual slaying. These are understood to be Mrs. Litt and Branaugh. Mrs. Rothenberg, it was learned, is charged with being an accessory after the fact for her alleged efforts to obstruct the investigation.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, Dec. 14.—A large volume of buying orders well distributed over the list caused good sized advancing at the opening of the stock market today. Sugar stocks were especially strong. Oils were active. United States Steel rose 1/4 to 95 1/4 and Gulf States at 52 1/2, ex-dividend, was up 1/4. Railroads share were steady.

The market extended its opening advances during the forenoon trading, all classes of stocks joining in the upward movement with a good deal of vigor. Sugar and oil stocks were most prominent on the advance, strength in the latter being inspired by an advance of 25 cents a barrel in the price of the Pennsylvania crude oil. Motors, steels and equipments were fractionally higher. Railroads were quiet but steady.

Farce and Comedy.
A farce is a dramatic piece of a broad character and the difference between it and comedy proper is one of degree and not of kind. The aim of both is to excite mirth, but while the comedy does so by comparatively faithful adherence to nature and truth, the farce assumes a much greater license and may make use of any extravagance or improbability that may serve its purpose.

GREENE GRAND JURY NOT READY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Catskill, N. Y., Dec. 14.—All suspects in the strangling of Howard Rothenberg, seven year old boy, were here today and were to be in court when the Greene county grand jury hands up three indictments in the case.

Final efforts to have the state intervene in the case have failed. Attorneys for Mrs. Esther Litt, the boy's aunt, were in Albany last night making final plea to Governor Smith. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rothenberg, the boy's parents, Mrs. Litt and Burtzell Branaugh, 40 year old son of an inn-keeper at Windham where the boy was killed, were expected to be in the court room today to hear the indictments read.

Unofficial reports were that the indictments name two women and a man. Two are said to be charged with murder and one woman with being an accessory after the fact.

TROOPERS DOING BEST TO KEEP BOOZE OUT OF STATE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Albany, N. Y., Dec. 14.—Everything possible is being done by New York State troopers to check the flow of liquor from wet Canada into dry New York. Captain John A. Warner, newly appointed superintendent of state police, declared today.

Every possible trooper from Troop G at Troy and Troop B at Malone, who can be spared from other work, is operating along the bootlegger trails to the north. Just at present the stolen automobile problem is giving the troopers in this part of the state nearly as much trouble as rum smuggling. Many of the stolen cars, it is believed are being used by the booze runners.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

William B. Halstead of Phillipsport, well known to the people of Ellenville and vicinity, died very suddenly in the shop of Howard J. Kelder, Ellenville, about 8 o'clock Friday morning, last. His remains were taken to Spring Glen for the funeral services Sunday afternoon, followed by interment in Phillipsport cemetery.

Daniel E. Schoonmaker, of Accord, died today, aged 55 years, following an illness from quinsy, which had been acute for the past few days. Funeral from the residence Monday afternoon, December 17, at 2:30 o'clock with interment in Accord Rural Cemetery. Mr. Schoonmaker had lived in the town of Rochester all his life and was one of its most prosperous and energetic farmers. He found time, also, to participate in many of the activities for the benefit of the township and represented it on the board of supervisors from 1910 until 1915. He was a staunch supporter of the Ulster County Farm Bureau and the local Eastern Reformed Church. He was a Democrat in politics.

James Morse, veteran of the Civil War, one of Ellenville's older residents, died Sunday at his home on Park street, having been in poor health for the past four years, the result of several strokes. Funeral services were held from the late home Wednesday afternoon, conducted by the Rev. W. S. Maines, followed by interment in Phillipsport cemetery. Deceased was born at Cape over 76 years ago, the son of Calvin Morse and his wife Mary Teller. Following the death of his first wife, who was Elizabeth Cameron, he later married Mahala Osterhout of Woodbourne, who survives him. Calvin Morse of Ellenville is a son by the first marriage. He is survived by the following brothers and sisters: Leonard Morse and Mrs. Jacob Hipert of Ellenville; Mrs. Thomas Parker of Tuckahoe and Mrs. Charles Miller of Clade. Mr. Morse was a member of Ward Post, G. A. R.

The funeral of Frederick L. Brown, Jr., one of the most likable young married men from the lower section of the city was held from his late home, 131 Hasbrouck avenue, Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Wednesday evening a large delegation from the Junior Order of American Mechanics visited the home and conducted a service and offered prayer for their deceased brother. Thursday afternoon the prayer service was conducted by the Rev. W. H. Moser, pastor of the Trinity M. E. Church, who also accompanied the funeral cortege and offered prayer and benediction at the grave in Montrose cemetery. Members of the Brotherhood of Firemen and Engineemen and American Mechanics acted as casket bearers. The brotherhood conducted their impressive committal service as their departed brother was laid to rest. The floral offerings were many and beautiful. Fred, as he was called by a large circle of friends was a quiet, unassuming young man who had the faculty of retaining a friendship once acquired. Besides his wife and four small children, his parents, one sister and two brothers are left to mourn his loss.

Geysers Harnessed.

For the first time in America a group of geysers has been harnessed and is now producing electrical energy. The geyser field is in Sonoma county, California, where deep wells have been sunk to tap the hot water strata. The steam thus developed is used to operate turbines, which in turn run enormous generators.

How "Fireflies" Work.

"Fireflies" are really not flies, but beetles. The light-producing organs are just inside the lower wall of some of the last segments of the abdomen, the segments involved depending on the species. The "lamp" consists of a substance termed luciferine, and the light is produced by the oxidation of this substance.

FEW WILD TURKEYS LEFT IN AMERICA

Same Birds Almost Exterminated in the United States.

One of the most spectacular of all American birds is the wild turkey. It is distinctly an American product and is found in no other place but North America.

Woven in the clothing wrapped about the remains of cliff dwellers in Arizona and New Mexico are found the feathers of turkeys. There are other evidences in the caves showing that the birds were kept in a state of domestication by the aborigines. When early in the sixteenth century the Spanish conquerors invaded Mexico, they found turkeys that had been domesticated by the Indians. Some of these they took back with them to Spain, where it was found they would breed in captivity. Their descendants were removed to France and England, and later brought to the United States by settlers. This is the history of the common domestic turkey which people are wont to have on the table when celebrating Christmas or Thanksgiving day. A short time ago, as time goes, wild turkeys were to be met within almost any suitable locality southward from a line drawn through southern Maine, southern Ontario and South Dakota. All over the eastern United States they were abundant, as well as among the hills and canyons of Colorado and the semi-arid deserts of New Mexico. Every year one may find on some magazine cover the picture of an old Puritan father with his blunderbuss on one shoulder and a wild turkey on the other. Thus do our men of art keep before our attention one of the past glories of New England. Where on Cape Cod may one find a wild turkey today? Where may you seek for it in Rhode Island, New York, Iowa or Indiana, or in many other states of its former range? In a few isolated out-of-the-way parts of our country some of these wonderful birds still exist. Ten years ago I found a number in Lee county, Florida. But soon a thousand hunters were in the field after them and the turkeys are vanishing from both Florida. There are still some to be found about the great southern swamps, as, for example, in North and South Carolina, Mississippi and Louisiana, and one may see signs of the great turkey in southern Texas, but here hunting is restricted. As a game bird the wild turkey has practically ceased to function.—T. Gilbert Pearson in the World's Work.

Butterfly Perfume.

It has long been known that many butterflies and moths have scent glands that emit delicate and pleasing odors. A well known example here in America is that of the monarch butterfly.

A government naturalist describes the perfumes of some of the characteristic English butterflies, which he interestingly likens to the odors of well known English flowers. A distinctive and characteristic perfume is probably secreted by each species. That this is so is supported by the records that the males of the large garden white butterfly diffuse a faint but delicious scent of balsam or lemon, those of the small white Pieris spae shed an aroma of thyme and from the green-veiled white Pieris napi there emanates a faint but delightfully odoriferous perfume resembling that of the lemon verbena. Other butterflies, according to their kind, diffuse other odors, as sweetbrier, honeysuckle and other choice perfumes, which are sometimes so strong as to be perceptible to the bluntest nose of mankind.

Bought and Paid For.

Pedro, a Mexican, had been hired to drive a coal wagon in Los Angeles. He made the delivery all right, but after the wagon was empty he went into the kitchen, planted himself in a chair and refused to budge.

Finally the police were called and Pedro was taken to the station and his employer sent for.

"What's the idea?" demanded the coal dealer, "why didn't you come back after you delivered the coal?" "I no know I can come back," wailed Pedro, "I thought I was sold with the coal; you weighed me with it, senor!"—Los Angeles Times.

The American Way.

In England they run horse races the other way around the track," says the Howard Courant. "But don't laugh at it. That was the old way before America got in. We were the folks who changed the style. Who remembers how the Romans used to run the chariot races? They raced on round tracks before the British did. The famous picture of Ben Hur's chariot race shows him going around the American way."

RARE TYPE OF GENTLEMAN

Winslow Homer, the Noted Painter, Lived Almost the Life of a Recluse.

Winslow Homer's life was almost the life of a recluse. He lived during many years in a secluded village, Prout's Neck, on the Maine coast. He rarely visited Boston or New York. He was a reserved man, mingling little with men of affairs. Excepting the companions with whom he had been associated in the old Tenth Street Studio building, in New York city, he knew few of the painters of our period. I recall an incident which illustrates this. On one occasion we were dining at the old Holland house. After luncheon I suggested that we go to the "Vernishing day" reception at the National academy. To this Mr. Homer demurred, saying that he never put himself in where he was not expected; but presently we did go to the reception. Although his works were known to every man present, few of them had ever met Homer. I think I actually introduced him to a score of the younger painters within the first fifteen minutes. He was given an ovation. For half an hour it seemed like a Homer reception.

Some years before this incident occurred, Homer was elected by his fellow painters to serve on the Carnegie Institute jury of award. Frank Duveneck had also been elected to serve on this jury. Homer had telegraphed the time of his departure from New York and I went to the station to meet him. Duveneck stepped from the train, and as I greeted him I inquired for Homer, but was assured that Homer was not on the train. Hesitating to leave the station, I scanned the faces of the passengers and, seeing Homer, suddenly exclaimed, "There he is!" In surprise Duveneck said, "Why, that is the little gentleman with whom I sat in the smoker all the way over the mountains. We talked about everything but art."

These incidents illustrate what I mean. Homer did not mingle with the painters. This was not because he was not companionable. He was a delightful companion and a perfect host. The days I spent with him at Prout's Neck, when we tramped day after day along the rocky Maine coast made so familiar to art lovers by his masterly paintings, come back to me in memory as among the most delightful of my life. A practical, methodical man, exact in his form of expression, thoroughly business-like in all his dealings, he impressed me as a rare type of the old-time American gentleman.

All Like to Give Advice.

A funny kink in human nature is that while men dislike to be told facts, they love to tell facts to others, writes Fred Kelly. Nearly everybody is trying to dodge facts. We are all seeking less reality and more fiction. Story books always sell better than those containing plain truths. Indeed the only way to be sure of having facts read is to dress them up in story form as if they weren't necessarily true. But while we are trying to avoid hearing too many facts, some of which are likely to be unpleasant, what fun it is to meet somebody who will listen to a few of the things we know! Thus we find here a fortunate situation. When we have to learn something, it is not difficult to obtain reliable information. The man who is an authority on almost any subject is willing to drop his work and give first-hand knowledge to us. He comes and asks for it. Indeed he is so eager to give a hand that he gives friendship rather than to give advice. Even though he is extremely valuable, the man who knows and knows that he knows will talk and pass on his knowledge just as long as the caller will listen. In more than twenty-five years' experience as a reporter, I have never yet been refused information by a real authority. The business man who fails to find out what he needs to know has only himself to blame. There is always somebody who would gladly tell him. Even one's competitor will usually answer almost any reasonable question about his business.—Nation's Business

His Alibi.

The squire was walking through the village one day, wearing a very shabby coat, when he met a friend.

"Surely you are ashamed to be seen in such a dreadful coat," said the friend.

"Certainly not," replied the squire. "Everybody knows me here."

A week later the squire was in Birmingham, still wearing the old coat, when he chanced to meet his friend, who again commented upon his untidy appearance.

"What does it matter?" was the reply. "Nobody knows me here."

True.

It was Friday night, and he had just received notice of a reduction in his wages. He walked homeward mournfully, and when ten yards from his door slipped on some orange peel.

His head came to rest on some paper lying on the pavement. He looked at the paper in a dazed sort of way, and saw that it was a book cover with the title: "You Never Know Your Luck!"

How Man Could Equal Mole.

In order to perform equivalent work of the web-footed mole, a man would have to excavate in a single night a tunnel thirty-seven miles long and of sufficient size to admit easily of the passage of his body.

Dead Sea Fruit.

The apple of Sodom is the familiar name of a species of yellow fruit which grows on the borders of the Dead sea. It is extremely beautiful to the eye, but bitter to the taste and full of small black grains, not unlike ashes. This apple is often referred to as the "Dead sea fruit," and the expression used as a metaphor for hollow, unsatisfactory pleasures.

INFANT ASSASSINS CONFESS MURDER.

Paul Doedler & Wm. Forrester (Below) Arthur Morrison

Paul Doedler and William Forrester, two 14-year-old boys, of Pasadena, Cal., have signed a confession that they fired three bullets into the body of little Arthur Morrison, five years old, bound him to a post and then crushed his skull with a brick, leaving him to die a lingering death.

JOHN C. MEYER IS PROMOTED TO LIEUTENANT

John C. Meyer, for twenty-five years a member of the Metropolitan police force, has been advanced to lieutenant and assigned to a position at headquarters for office work. Lieutenant Meyer is a former Kingston man, a son of Jacob P. Meyer of 71 Garden street. For a score of years he was a member of the traffic squad of New York and was stationed for a long period at the intersection of Fifth avenue and Forty-second street, and later at Broadway and Forty-fifth street, the two busiest traffic sections in the Metropolis. He is known by thousands whom he has guided across Fifth avenue or Broadway, while he held up horse drawn vehicles in years gone by and later automobiles and auto buses. His friends of boyhood days will be pleased to learn of his advancement.

Settlement 7,000 Years Old.

Numerous flint implements, bone harpoons, arrowheads, grindstones, chisels and tooth-headed spears have been discovered in the remains of a settlement at Holmegardsmos, Denmark. It is estimated the settlement is at least 7,000 years old. Although no human bones have yet been found, the excavators uncovered skeletons of elk, reindeer and other animals under a layer of peat several yards thick.

Best Swansdown.

The best swansdown for making powder puffs comes from Norway. The young birds are hatched out in late May or early June, and are killed early in the following winter. It is taken about 40,000 birds to satisfy the demand for swansdown, and the price of the commodity has risen so greatly since the war that many fresh swan farms have been established in Sweden and in the Baltic islands.
